NEW GOVERNOR TAKES CHARGE

Judge William H. Taft Installed as Civil Ruler of the Philippines Today---Three Natives to Go on the Commission.

Manila, July 4.—Civil government in the Philippines was auspiciously inaugurated today. Commissioner Taft was escorted by General MacArthur and General Chaffee from the palace to a great temporary tribune on the opposite side of the plaza Palacio. Standing on a projecting center of the tribune, Mr. Taft took the oath of office as civil governor of the Philippine islands, the oath being administered by Chief Justice Arellano. Governor Taft was then introduced by General MacArthur, the guns of Fort Santiago being fired by way of a salute.

A feature of the inaugural address of Governor Taft was the announcement that on September 1, 1901, the commission would be increased by the appointment of three native members, Dr. Wardo Detavera, Benito Legarda and Jose Luzuriaga. Before the first of September departments will be instituted as follows, the heads being members of the United States Philippine commission:

Interior—Worcester.
Commerce and Police—Wright.
Justice and Finance—Ide.
Public Instruction—Moses.

Of the twenty-seven provinces organized Governor Taft said the insurrection still exists in five. This will cause the continuance of the military government in these sections. Sixteen additional provinces are reported without insurrections, but as yet they have not been organized. Four provinces are not ready for civil government. Governor Taft said that with the concentration of troops in larger garrisons it would be necessary for the people to assist

TWO BIG FIRES IN EASTERN CITIES

Baltimore, July 4.—The six-story brick and iron building on the corner of North and Lexington streets, directly opposite the city hall and known as the "Hoen" building, was completely destroyed by fire shortly after 7 o'clock this morning. The fire originated in the third floor, but its cause is still undetermined.

It took fully an hour to get the flames under control and when this was done the building was found to be completely gutted and its contents destroyed. All of the floors except the first were occupied by A. Hoen & Co., lithographers and printers. Their loss is a serious one and may reach $300,000, as they had many valuable cuts and lithographic apparatus which it is almost impossible to replace. The other occupants of the building, all of whom are on the first floor, are the Southern Electric company, the Hammond Typewriter company, the Cash Coal company, Gately & Haskell, bookbinders; Baltimore County Mutual Fire Insurance company and the Belgravia Land company. No detailed statement of the losses of these concerns are as yet attainable, but a rough estimate places the damage at $150,000. The loss on the building will probably reach $200,000, making the total loss about $650,000, all of which is said to be covered by insurance.

ANOTHER AT PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, July 4.—The big dressed beef storage warehouse of A. A. Jewett & Co., Philadelphia agents of Swift & Co., of Chicago, was almost entirely destroyed by fire today, entailing a loss of $300,000. The fire broke out at 8:30 a. m. in the curing department, on the sixth floor of the building, and in half an hour the three top floors were a mass of flames. The lower portion of the building was damaged by water and the immense stock carried by the company was nearly all destroyed. The big ice plant adjoining the storage warehouse, together with 300 tons of ice, was also destroyed.

SIX BAGS OF GOLD ARE MISSING

Officials Seek to Locate $30,000 Which Has Disappeared from the San Francisco Mint---Director Roberts Talks.

San Francisco, July 4.—Concerning the report that a shortage has been discovered in the San Francisco branch mint, the Chronicle today says:

Six bags of gold, each containing $5,000 in $20 gold pieces, have disappeared from the mint, and no trace of the thief has been discovered, although Superintendent Leach and his force, assisted by Director of the Mint Roberts and his staff of experts, have been at work on the mystery since June 29.

The annual count of the coin, amounting to $25,000,000, began last Friday. On Saturday six bags were found to be missing from the cashier's vault. As the cashier's books tallied with those of the other departments, the officials were forced to the conclusion that somebody acquainted with the inside affairs of the mint had taken the money.

Director of Mint Roberts, of Washington, made the following statement:

"We have been very reluctant to conclude that a shortage exists. We have fought against the belief that there is anything wrong, but after three days' work in checking calculations and going over the count we have still to face the situation of $30,000 less in coin than the books call for.

"There appears to be no escape from the conclusion that some one or more persons employed in the mint has been faithless to the trust reposed in him or them. There is a possibility of an over-payment to a depositor. It is improbable, however, that so large an over-payment could be made."

Both Superintendent Leach and Director Dimmick declared that suspicion could not point to Cashier Cole, since his books were in perfect condition and called for the amount missing.

SAYS CASHIER IS SHORT.

Washington, July 4.—A telegram has been received at the mint bureau from Director Roberts, who is in San Francisco, confirming the report of the disappearance of government funds from the mint in that city. He says the cashier of that mint is $30,000 short, but gives no particulars of his investigation and ventures no surmise as to the cause of the shortage. As Mr. Roberts is on the ground, the mint officials here decline to speculate as to what course may be pursued for the protection of the government.

Decision in the Ross Case Has Aroused Popular Indignation at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, July .—The railroading of John Ross into the insane asylum and his delivery yesterday by by Judge Leathers, who pronounced him sane has aroused popular indignation against the system and a thorough investigation is now demanded. Two other cases have occurred and the victims set at liberty. The grand jury will investigate all recent cases. Dr. F. A. Morrison, president of the board of health, says that the board should investigate the dispensary physicians who are charged with railroading people into the insane asylum for fees even if the grand jury fails to indict them, unless it should clearly appear that there is no evidence whatever of wrong-doing on their part.

BANK FAILURE CAUSES PANIC.

Odessa, July 4.—The Kharkoff Commercial bank has failed with a deficit estimated at five million roubles. The failure has caused a financial panic in South Russia.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE OFF.

Cassel, Prussia, July 4.—The negotiations of the creditors' committee and the receivers of the Leipziger bank with the directors of the Cassel Grain Drying company were broken off today. The grain drying company subsequently made an assignment. The chairman, Herr Sumpf, was shortly afterwards arrested. The director general, Herr Schmidt, has disappeared.

SEVENTY-ONE APPLICANTS.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 4.—The State Embalmers' board examined seventy-one applicants yesterday for certificates as registered embalmers under the new law. At the previous examination 262 applicants wrote for licenses. Twenty per cent. of this number failed. The examination continued at the state house all day, with a practical demonstration on cadavers at the Medical College of Indiana, in the afternoon.

DAY IN NEW YORK

HOW METROPOLIS CELEBRATED THE FOURTH.

OCCASION UNUSUALLY QUIET

TAMMANY HELD ITS CUSTOMARY EXERCISES.

BRYAN SENDS A SENTIMENT

MINISTER WU SPEAKS AT PHILADELPHIA.

New York, July 4.—The observance of Independence day in this city was more than usually quiet this year. There were flag raising ceremonies at sunrise at the Battery and at the Block house in Central park, but they were attended by very few people. Nearly every one who could do so, left the city yesterday on account of the intense heat, and today the streets were almost deserted.

Tammany hall held its regular Independence day celebration, at which the Declaration of Independence was read and speeches were made by Governor Jennings, of Florida, and other leaders of the democratic party. The following letter of regret from W. J. Bryan, dated Washington, June 29, was read:

LETTER FROM MR. BRYAN.

"I congratulate Tammany upon the fidelity it has shown in celebrating each returning anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. I trust that at this time, when the republican leaders are denying the universal application of the self-evident truths set forth in that declaration, special emphasis will be given to the assertion that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. In response to your request for a sentiment appropriate for the occasion, I beg to suggest the following: Liberty is not safe without a constitution, and a constitution to be of value must be strong enough to control every public servant and broad enough to include within its protection every person who acknowledges allegiance to the flag."

WU AT PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, July 4.—Several thousand persons gathered in Independence square today to see and hear Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister. Minister Wu was orator of the day at the municipal celebration of Independence day and the friendly reception given the distinguished guest must have allayed all fears for his safety, based on the fact that he had received an anonymous letter threatening him with bodily harm. After prayer by Bishop Whitaker, Minister Wu was introduced by Chairman Hammond. When the Chinese diplomat stepped to the front of the platform he was given a rousing reception and it was some time before quiet could be sufficiently restored to permit the distinguished speaker to be heard.

As he proceeded with his speech he was listened to with marked attention and every patriotic utterance was loudly cheered.

Minister Wu began with an expression of his gratification of the honor shown him and regret over the circumstances which prevented his acceptance of a similar invitation a year ago. Referring to the day he sketched the many important events which had occurred upon its anniversaries. He made humorous reference to the fact that China furnished America with fire crackers and then in serious vein traced a similarity in the educational system of China, which gave the humblest citizen an opportunity to become part of the government and the electoral system of the United States. He defined the canons of Confucius and Mencius as the Magna Charta of China and quoted the words of Mencius: "The people are the most important element in a nation, the spirits of the land and grain are the next, the sovereign is the lightest." His closing tribute to the United States was as follows:

"This nation, it seems to me, has not sprung into existence without a manifest destiny. There must be some noble ends for which the independence of the United States was established. It was to demonstrate to the world what great good to mankind a free and independent people can do ;to establish 'a government of the people, by the people and for the people;' to preserve law and order; to treat all people alike with fairness and justness; to do away with selfish and clannish feelings; to make American patriotism synonymous with fair play, with the love of mankind, with freedom and liberty in accordance with law and justice. By pursuing these ends this republic will become the greatest power upon earth, and you citizens of this great country will be more than ever respected and loved by all."

FELL DOWN STAIRS.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Winters, 39 Lincoln avenue, was the scene of much excitement at an early hour today. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Winters this morning, and the nurse, Mrs. Irwin, who had been in attendance on Mrs. Winters for some time, met with an accident in which she narrowly escaped setting fire to the house. While decending the cellar steps with a lamp in her hand, she missed her footing and fell to the bottom, striking her head on a corner of the steps and bruising herself severely. The lamp set fire to some trash in the cellar and a serious blaze was prevented by the heroic work of Mr. Winters.

BELIEVE BLOODSHED IS OVER

COLORADO MINERS' TROUBLE IS SUBSIDING.

Three Dead and Ten Wounded the Result of a Bloody Battle at Telluride.

Telluride, Col., July 4.—No further bloodshed is feared at the Smuggler-Union mine, where three men were killed and about ten wounded in a battle between strikers and non-union miners yesterday.

Officials of the company have agreed to withdraw all men from the mine except a few watchmen and to make no effort to resume work until the strike is amicably settled or officially declared off. There seems no probability of further hostilities.

There men were killed and at least ten wounded in the fight yesterday between 150 armed strikers and the force of miners and deputies at the mines.

The dead:

John Barthell, a miner, one of the attacking party.

George Nicholson, shift boss at the mine.

J. Lujan, a Mexican, employed as trammer in the mine.

Non-union men numbering about 100 were driven over the range into Ouray county and warned never to return.

The strike, which culminated in the outbreak yesterday, was ordered by the miners' union on May 1 last. It followed the refusal of the mine management to guarantee all miners employed minimum wages of $3 a day. The company resumed operations June 17 with a non-union force.

In furtherance of the general desire for an amicable and peaceful settlement of the points at issue between the union and the company, a business men's meeting was held at Telluride today, at which the positive assurance is said to have been given that the union should not take action without consultation with the business men, who had consented to serve as a committee of mediation, and they were only awaiting the return of Manager Collins to take action when the outbreak occurred.

Officials of the miners' union declare the march on the mines yesterday was entirely without the sanction of the organization.

KINDER HAS GHASTLY RELIC

MEMENTO OF AN ALLEN COUNTY HANGING.

Rope on Which Madden and Keefer Were Swung Into Eternity Thirty-Five Years Ago.

Randolph Kinder, who resides near Harlansburg, was in the city today, says the Huntington News-Democrat, and had in his possession a relic which he prizes very highly, although to some it is a ghastly object. The relic is the noose end of a hangman's rope that was used in executing two murderers named Madden and Keefer, who were hung by the sheriff of Allen county thirty-five years ago. The two men murdered another man in a lumber pile, securing five dollars.

Dr. Swazee was one of the judges who pronounced the murderers dead after they were hung and he secured the noose, which still shows signs of the condemned men's blood. After the death of Dr. Swazee his widow married Mr. Kinder and that is how he came into possession of the rope.

FORT WAYNE HONORED THE DAY

Picnics, Parks and Summer Resorts Drew the Crowds---Young America Gives a Noisy Testimonial of His Patriotism.

The 125th anniversary of the birth of American freedom was heralded Wednesday evening by the discharge of cannon crackers, blunderbusses, firearms of all descriptions and torpedoes. In spite of the mayor's proclamation that there should be no noisy demonstrations until 4 o'clock patriots remained up all night and the actual business of ushering the day was continued from midnight, through the early morning hours, to the present writing without perceptible diminution.

The small boy, of course, was the important factor in all this celebration and as it is the one day of the years in which his noisy proclivities are allowed to expand, run over and burst out in spots, he made himself ubiquitous. His one chief delight was to place giant torpedoes on the street car tracks and watch the effect on timid passengers as one end of the car threatened to go into the air under the force of the explosions. The boys, as a rule, were undisturbed in their exploits, although the police thought it prudent to deprive a number of them of their revolvers, horse-pistols and other warlike weapons, until almost a wheelbarrow load of them were stored at the police station. The weapons were in all cases carefully marked and the boys were told that they could have them by calling for them tomorrow.

There was nothing in the nature of a general celebration arranged for anywhere in the city, although a large number of church and society pcnics are in progress in the various

SYSTEM REACHES 'ROUND THE WORLD

San Francisco, July 4.—A special to the Chronicle from Tacoma says:

It is definitely announced by interests closely connected with the Northern Pacific railway that J. P. Morgan & Co. has purchased of George B. Dodwell, Frederick Dodwell and Hugh C. Wallace the Northern Pacific Steamship company and the Washington and Alaska Steamship company. The sale of the lines was effected in New York in May by George B. Dodwell and Hugh C. Wallace, who have recently returned. Men connected with the Northern Pacific confirmed the sale but will not permit the use of their names.

It was originally arranged that the announcement should be made only by J. P. Morgan after his return from Europe. The purchase of these lines gives Morgan & Co. a complete transportation system around the world, with headquarters in New York. It comprises the Leyland line from New York to London, the Glen line and Northern Pacific steamship line from London to Tacoma, and the Northern Pacific, Burlington and Erie railroads from Tacoma to New York.

Board to Secure High School Site by Condemnation Proceedings---Failure to Agree on Terms Will Delay Work.

Failing in the attempt to purchase upon what were considered favorable conditions the property of Miss Margaret Hamilton, at Barr and Lewis streets, as a site for the new Fort Wayne high school building, the school board at its meeting Wednesday evening determined to resort to legal measures to secure the property. Barrett & Morris, attorneys for the school board, were directed to institute condemnation proceedings to secure possession of the property.

The selection of the site was made by the board several months ago, but conditions governing the transfer of the property arose which have greatly delayed the work of the board. It was desired that a tract 160 feet in width off the eastern portion of the Hamilton square, and extending from Lewis street to Montgomery, be purchased, and the board also wanted an option upon ten additional feet at the west side of this plat.

THE TERMS OFFERED.

Miss Hamilton offered the 150-foot tract for $25,000, stipulating that $5,000 be paid in cash and $20,000 on or before the 10th of October next. No restrictions were to be placed on this, but in the additional ten feet arose the difference between Miss Hamilton and the board. Miss Hamilton stipulated that the ten-foot strip should be used only for park and ornamental purposes, or for the use of a bicycle path or passageway; that no building should be placed thereon during her life; that no further rights should be exercised over the strip during her life, unless by the payment to her of $10,000 as damages. Finally, she stipulated that the additional forty feet included in the option should not, during her life, be condemned or otherwise appropriated, except by the payment to her of $20,000 in excess of its value as damages.

These conditions the board could not accept and repeated attempts have been made to agree upon a satisfactory basis of purchase. Judge Alden, attorney for Miss Hamilton, submitted a last proposition at the meeting Wednesday evening, but it was no more acceptable than the previous one, and the board's determination to institute the condemnation proceedings resulted.

WILL DELAY THE WORK.

This new phase of the situation means that the building of the new high school and manual training school will be considerably delayed, and it is likely that work cannot begin before next spring. The circuit court has adjourned and action cannot be brought until the September term, and the formalities of the procedure are likely to require considerable time.

The architect's plans for the building are well under way and the board had hoped to have the foundations of the building completed before cold weather. The board has abandoned consideration of the site offered by Hon. Montgomery Hamilton, as it is considered too small for the purpose.

The following case is but one of many similar occuring daily in Fort Wayne. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence.

Mrs. Adolph Felt, of No. 12 Caroline street, says: "Before I took Doan's Kidney Pills, sold at Meyer Bros. & Co.'s drug store, I was afflicted with kidney trouble so that I could hardly attend to my household work, and when I did a little more than usual my back ached so I could hardly stand it. Once a week I was sure to be used up with sick headache and sometimes oftener. I tried other remedies before I did Doan's Kidney Pills, but the kidney trouble stuck right to me. Shortly after I commenced the treatment the backache and headaches disappeared and I have had no return of them since."

WILL APPEAL TO PYTHIANS

TO SAVE INSURANCE BRANCH OF THE ORDER.

Supreme Lodge to Take Matter in Charge—Death Claims Last Year $8,000 Above Receipts.

Chicago, July 4.—One million dollars will be needed to place the insurance rank of the Knights of Pythias in as good shape as it was two years ago, and it is probable an appeal will be made to members of the order to come to the rescue and save the insurance branch.

The supreme lodge of the order will meet in Chicago next week under a special call to consider solely the future of the endowment rank.

PLAN TO RAISE PAYMENTS.

Besides providing for funds it will consider a plan to raise the payments which members make by 23 per cent. so as to conform to requirements recently made by the laws of seven states. Beyond this it will have an even greater matter to consider—the charges of criminal negligence and misconduct which have been made against the former officers of the order.

Former officers will be charged with investing $300,000 where it is tied up and useless to the order, if not a total loss, and with depositing funds in unsound banks. Their books are said to be in such bad shape that it is impossible even to tell how much money was put into some of the investments.

The endowment rank is a huge fraternal insurance society in itself, with almost 70,000 members and with almost $120,000,000 of insurance outstanding. For twelve years until last January John A. Hinsey, special agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, was the president of its board of control. During the latter part of his term of office $100,000 was invested in Texas coal lands a few miles from the town of Bowie and $191,500 was put in bonds of the Lexington Hotel.

INVESTMENTS ARE POOR.

Now the coal lands are said to be utterly worthless, unless by some accident of fate somebody some time finds oil on them, while the Lexington hotel property will need, it is said, an investment of several hundred thousand dollars more to make it possible to realize on the property.

This is only one of the troubles of the order. Outstanding against it are $375,000 of death claims unpaid, which must be provided for.

Last year the death claims amounted to $80,000 more than the assessments brought in. This the order could have stood with ease if the investments of its surplus funds had been in good shape.

John A. Hinsey denies the stories of mismanagement when he was president and says that the investments were good ones when he made them. Concerning the alleged bribery of an Illinois insurance commissioner, he said: "I never paid that man a cent. The books were examined by state inspectors in 1897. My whole correspondence with him consisted of two formal letters, which are on file."

Fred H. Rowe, attorney for the Illinois insurance department, was asked regarding the reports from Indianapolis that criminal proceedings would be instituted against the officers responsible for the mismanagement of the funds of the endowment rank, but would not commit himself.

CASE IS CONTINUED.

Chicago, July 4.—When C. G. Morgenthaler was arraigned before Justice Mahoney, in the Sheffield avenue police court, yesterday, the case was continued until July 10. The police have five charges of passing worthless checks against the man.

the police in the preservation of order. Fleet launches will be procured, he said, which will facilitate communication among the provinces, as well as aid the postal and revenue departments. In connection with educational efforts, Governor Taft said that adults should be educated by an observation of American methods. He said that there was a reasonable hope that congress would provide for a tariff, suitable to assist in the development of the Philippines, and not a mere application of the United States tariff.

According to Governor Taft there is an unexpended balance in the insular treasury of $3,700,000, and an annual income of $10,000,000.

The governor said that any possible friction between civil and military subordinates should be discouraged. The patriotism of the leading Filipinos was commended. In conclusion, Civil Governor Taft reiterated a hope expressed by the president that in the future the inhabitants would be grateful for the American Philippine victories, and that they would be indissolubly linked in ties of affection with the common country.

JUDGE BAKER MAY NOT GET IT

PRECEDENCE OF THE SENATE IN WAY OF PROMOTION.

Age Limit is Against His Appointment to the Judgeship—It is an Old Rule.

(Indianapolis Journal.)

In all the discussion recently regarding the appointment to fill the vacancy on the United States circuit bench caused by the death of Judge Woods it has been conceded that Judge Baker would be promoted and that Senators Beveridge and Fairbanks would have to select some one to take the chair now held by Judge Baker, but now there comes from Washington information that throws doubt on Judge Baker's promotion.

This information is that when Senator Edmunds was chairman of the judiciary committee of the senate, which receives the recommendations for the appointment of federal judges, he and his associates established a rule that no man should be confirmed to the circuit bench who was over sixty years of age. It is required that a man must serve ten years on either the circuit or district benches and must have reached the age of seventy years before he can retire on salary.

The dispatch also points out that Judge Baker's service on the district bench would not count in his retirement from the circuit bench, even if the senate should waive its time-honored traditions, and he would be eighty years old before he could retire from that bench. It is further said that Judge Baker is sixty-nine years old and in a year or a little more he will have served ten years on the district bench. Unless the senate should waive its rule in this particular case he could not be appointed to the circuit bench. It is appreciated that at sixty-nine Judge Baker is in full possession of his powers, but it is presumed this fact would not affect the general rule of the senate.

Senator Hoar is now chairman of the judiciary committee and his conservatism and respect for the traditions of the senate are well known to the public at large. It is also well known here that Judge Baker would not press his own suit for promotion and he has said in an interview that he would not take part in the contest for the appointment to the circuit bench. Under the foregoing conditions it is thought in Washington that the president may be called upon to make only one appointment, a successor to Judge Woods on the circuit bench.

CELEBRATED IN CHINA.

Pekin, July 4.—The Fourth was celebrated here today by the United States legation guard with athletic games and fireworks. The German minister, Dr. Mumm Von Schwarzenstein, gave a dinner at the German legation to the officers of the American guard. Messrs. Squires and Rockhill and the other members of the United States legation celebrated the Fourth at the summer legation in the hills.

TOWN SWEPT AWAY.

Nome, Alaska, via Seattle, Wash., July 4.—Reports from Council City are to the effect that a rise in Fish river June 15 swept away the entire town of White Mountain, with the exception of one saloon. The rise was caused by the breaking of an ice jam. A native village at the mouth of the Neukluk was also flooded. Golovin bay is still solidly frozen over.

AMERICANS WIN ONCE MORE

PENNSYLVANIA BOYS DEFEAT THAMES CREW.

Oarsmen in English Waters Will Meet Leanders in Final Trial Tomorrow.

Henley, July 4.—The second day of the Henley regetta was signalized by another victory for the Americans, the oarsmen of the University of Pennsylvania defeating the Thames Rowing club and thus winning their second heat. As the Leanders defeated the Belgian crew, the Pennsylvanians will meet the Leanders in the final heat for the Grand Challenge cup tomorrow.

CONDITIONS EXCELLENT.

The conditions were even better than yesterday. A bright, hot sun was shining and there was no wind. There was a decided increase in the attendance and American flags were very liberally displayed.

Soon after 11 o'clock the Leancers, paddling to the start for their race, were loudly applauded along the course, but their reception was quite eclipsed by that given to the Americans, as a few minutes later they followed. The contrast in the style of the two crews, whom everybody expected to see fight it out in the final heat, was more marked than ever. The Americans seemed even more confident than yesterday.

There was a capital start and the Pennsylvanians had three-fourths of a length lead before the top of the island was reached. They rowed eleven strokes in the first quarter, twenty-two in the first half, and forty-one during the first minute. The Americans went away steadily and easily from that point and dropped their stroke to thirty-eight. They did half the distance in 3:30. Their opponents did the half in 3:42. Opposite the Leander enclosure the Pennsylvanians were three lengths ahead, and, although they again eased considerably and the others spurted, the Thames men were never able to make up anything.

Passing the grand stand the Americans could not resist a little spurt and they rowed with a dozen strokes at the rate of forty-one to the minute.

The Americans had a very friendly reception, and a number of their countrymen succeeded in giving them a very respectable college yell. The band played "The Belle of New York."

Ellis Ward, the American coach, who was in the umpire's launch, expressed himself as being thoroughly satisfied and confident. He said:

"I told them they must not make that spurt at the end, but I suppose they were so excited and pleased that they could not resist it."

Ellis Ward and Graduate Manager Hart are both delighted with the easy race, which Ward said was only paddling. "But," he added, "it gets us up against Leander, and now we will do the best we can to make tomorrow another Fourth of July."

parks and groves in and around the city. In consequence many Fort Wayne people have left the city for the day, Rome City attracting the largest crowd, although a large number are at Winona, where C. W. Fairbanks will set off an assortment of vocal pyrotechnics this afternoon. Robison park is commanding the best patronage of any of the local entertainments and the attractions there are more diversified. Besides the usual theatrical entertainments and the general outing facilities afforded at this popular resort, band concerts will be on all day and this evening there will be an illumination and there will also be some fireworks.

The Concordia and the St. Paul's Lutheran congregations have consolidated for the day and are picnicking at the college grounds, where a band of music has been engaged to furnish entertainment for the little folks. St. Peter's church, with a band, is picnicking at the grove adjacent to the church on Warsaw street and Zion's Lutheran church is close by with another picnic. St. Mary's Catholic church is celebrating at Lakeside park, with Casso's orchestra as the musical feature, and the Church of the Precious Blood is holding a picnic on the north side near the church. Emmaus Lutheran church and Sunday school are spending the day at Zollars' grove, formerly known as high banks. St. John's, as has been the custom for a number of years, is entertaining its little ones at Swinney park.

At Centlivre park the Amateur Driving club has arranged for a splendid program, and the City band has been engaged to give a concert before and after as well as during the races. For the afternoon this popular resort will probably hold the call and will attract the largest crowd of the older people. The accidents so far reported have been remarkably few in number and none are of serious character.

ARCADE DENTAL PARLORS.

In order to discourage any fear on the part of the reader lest he or she might class us with those who advertise to give away fillings, crowns, plates, etc., we wish it understood in the following few words that we pursue no such methods.

We make but one claim and that is that we conduct a high-class Dental parlor, where only the best work is done and at prices within reach of all.

Reliable Dentistry.

The above means just what it says. It is a name we are proud of. Seven years we have given our best efforts toward establishing what is now the largest dental practice in the city. Our chief aim has been to give the public the best dental service at prices about one-half the charges of private practitioners. We have succeeded beyond expectation, but only by giving the best in material and workmanship.

The limit of false economy is reached by all who are attracted by low prices for cheap dentistry, which is expensive at any cost.

Have ours; the best and most profitable, quality and cost considered.

Estimates Cheerfully Given. Telephone 627.

WHEN you are ready to buy, stop and compute the cost of the soap used by your household in a day, a week or a month, and for the slight difference in price you will never forego the pleasure of using the purest soap made, that is, Ivory Soap.

It is the most inexpensive of pure soaps. You need no knowledge of chemistry to realize this purity, use it and you will know. It floats.

HONOR TO FORT WAYNE LADY

STATE SOCIETY PRESENTS RING TO MISS RICE.

Annual Meeting of Indiana Sons of Veterans and Ladies' Aid Society at Muncie.

Muncie, Ind., July 4.—The annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans of Indiana, and their auxiliary, the Ladies' Aid society, came to a close today, the visitors participating in a monster Fourth of July parade at the close of their session.

A pretty feature of the closing ceremonies was the presentation of a beautiful ring, with settings of emeralds and pearls, by the members of the Ladies' Aid society to Miss Nettie Rice, of Fort Wayne, the retiring president.

SONS OF VETERANS.

The election of state officers for the Sons of Veterans resulted as follows:

Commander—George W. Krietenstein, of Terre Haute.

Senior Vice Commander—J. Harve Leffler, of Muncie.

Junior Vice Commander—McClure Tate, of Noblesville.

Quartermaster—E. E. Friedline, of Jonesboro.

STRIKE SITUATION QUIET.

Pittsburg, July 4.—Quiet prevailed in amalgamated circles today. There was nothing new in the strike situation, and this being the Fourth, the headquarters of the association were deserted. In speaking of a general tie-up of the United States Steel corporation plants unless the companies involved in the present dispute make terms, President Shaffer said that while he would not hesitate to take such a course if it became necessary to do so to win, he did not believe there would be a general strike. "I have hopes," said he, "that the troubles will be settled to the satisfaction of all concerned."

"It is up to the employers now," continues he. "Our scale expired June 30, and they refused to sign the new scale. Our men cannot and will not work until it is signed. Should the employers wish to meet us again to talk over the scale we will meet them, and I am satisfied that something will be done within the next two weeks."

Miss Isabel McClure has gone to Buffalo to visit the exposition.

A STIMULANT.

And a Sorry Friend to Some Systems

"Coffee acts as a stimulant to me I can for a time accomplish considerable more work, but then I am dull, spiritless, nervous, weak and irritable. Coffee acts like a slow poison on my father, giving him inward pains and a feeling of being generally upset. Continued use always used to make him ill.

"He used to be very fond of the beverage and was in the habit of drinking it two mornings, say, then skipping a few days, and taking it two mornings again. If he took it the third morning he was invariably sick. It is two years now since we had the first package of Postum. We have been using it ever since, to our very great benefit.

"A lady friend who is the wife of a prominent clergyman in New Haven (whose name I am not at liberty to give), was a complete nervous wreck from the use of coffee. About a year ago she began the use of Postum and continued in it. Six weeks after starting she had lost all her former nervousness, had grown plump in the face, and her health better than it had been for years. She is a splendid walking advertisement, and is most enthusiastic in the praise of Postum, telling all of her callers of its merits and urging them to try it." Kate Austen, Hamden, Conn.

MANY CELEBRITIES COMING.

Winona Lake, Ind., July 4.—The list of international Bible student celebrities that will attend the national Bible conference at Winona in August was announced today. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, of New York, who was Moody's associate for many years, will preside. The Rev. Dr. John McNeil, of Scotland, whom Moody declared to be "the greatest preacher in the world," will be on the program. He will be accompanied by the Rev. J. W. VanDeventer, another one of Great Britain's most noted evangelists. The Rev. Andrew Murray, of Africa, and the Rev. A. A. Fulton, of China, will also be on the program. Among the fifty or more noted American Bible students to be heard during the two weeks are the Rev. J. M. Buckley, editor of the Christian Advocate, New York; the Rev. W. G. Moorehead, president of Xenia Theological Seminary; the Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin, the noted Baptist preacher of Brooklyn; Bishop J. W. Hott, the Rev. George L. Robinson, president of McCormick Theological Seminary; S. H. Hadley, of the McAuley missions, New York; the Rev. Alexander Patterson, of Chicago; the Rev. W. L. Munhall, of Philadelphia; Todd B. Hall, the celebrated Baltimore detective-evangelist; W. A. ("Billy") Sunday, the ex-professional ball player, and the Rev. R. A. Walton. It is now thought that the attendance this year will not fall short of 5,000. At the first national Bible conference seven years ago, but seventy-five were present.

ATTACKED BY A SNAKE.

Martinsville, Ind., July 4.—While Miss Isis Meyer was driving to her home near this city, her buggy ran over a snake lying in the roadway, and the reptile coiled itself about the wheel and endeavored to crawl into the buggy. Miss Meyer fought it with the butt of her whip and called for help, and some men in a field nearby ran to her assistance and the snake was killed. It measured over six feet in length, and was of a reddish brown color, of a species not common in this county.

The weather bureau, it must be conceded, has been making a series of very warm forecasts recently.

About every horse that assumes to cut any figure in equine society in Fort Wayne today is wearing a straw hat.

Republican sentiment in Ohio gives a gasp at the lurking thought of the electrical storm that would occur if Mr. Foraker and Mr. Hanna should each discover a presidential bee in his bonnet at the same time.

This is the glorious time of the year when the patriotic boy and the toy cannon and cap pistol get in their joint work of destruction. The toy cannon and the cap pistol always come out ahead because they never get reckless. The patriotic boy is different.

Judge Allen Zollars, of this city, and the late Judge William A. Woods served together upon the bench of the Indiana supreme court. Of the supreme bench as constituted at that time but two members are now living—Judge Zollars and Judge Byron K. Elliott, of Indianapolis.

Tests made in Boston prove that wood pavements radiate more heat than any other kind. The time of the experiments was the early afternoon, with the thermometer at 98 in the shade. The average temperature was 124½ for the wood pavement, 115 for granite blocks, 113 for asphalt, and 102½ for macadam.

Good wages mean almost everything. Lord Roberts declared that it is this fact which makes the United States army remain the finest of its size in the world. Of course, we are under the impression that there is something more than the monthly pay in the superiority of our troops, but we are willing to accept the compliment of the distinguished English soldier. One thing about our army that generally escapes attention is the fact that it contains thousands of men who never saved a penny in their lives until after they enlisted. Uncle Sam is a good man to serve and he helps his men all he can to acquire good habits and to follow good methods in the care of the money which he pays them.

The powers are able to do a good many things in China, but they are not able to control the empress dowager. That remarkable old lady suspects that her invitation to return to Pekin is a trap for her arrest and punishment—which she thoroughly deserves—so she has issued a decree constituting a new capital, where she proposes to transact business as of old.

With a trade of a billion and a half per annum the United States stands today at the head of the commercial nations, and is altogether likely to maintain that position unless a European coalition should come to punish us for our foolish and selfish policy. But possibly our statesmen and voters may gain a little sense in the course of time and undo the mischief of Dingleyism. Then, indeed, would America rule the world of trade.

THE AMERICAN INVASION.

London writers of pronounced humor are still having their sport over the American invasion of Great Britain, says the New York World. One of them recommends these questions, among others, for would-be students at the Scotch universities favored by Mr. Carnegie:

Geography—Draw a map of the United States, marking London, Glasgow and Birmingham.

Travel—You are an American millionaire traveling for recreation. Which would you take back with you as souvenirs, London or Paris? State your reasons for preferring one of these trinkets.

History—Write a note on the invasions of Great Britain and the rebellion and subsequent subjugation of the Angles. Gives dates of accessions of Yerkes I., Sloan, Morgan, the Contractor, and other conquerors; also of the beatification of St. Carnegie. Say who you know of any of these.

This is funny, beyond even a Yankee doubt. Does it intensify the humor of the situation to read in another section of the cable news the serious program for an unusually elaborate celebration in London of the Fourth of July.

CIVIL RULE IN PHILIPPINES.

Today marks the inauguration in the Philippine archipelago of what by grace is called civil rule. In reality it is a continuation of military rule, under which some particular civic privileges in local matters is vouchsafed the Filipinos. Judge Taft, who is now civil governor general of the Philippines, is an officer of the war department and under the direction of the secretary of war. There is and there can be no government in the Philippines save military rule or some modification of it, because congress has not legislated for those possessions of the United States, and the only thing like ligislation that has been put through is the Spooner amendment to the army bill. However, as the supreme court is almost certain to render its decision that will fix the constitutional status of the Philippines as has been done in the case of Porto Rico legislation that will establish real civil rule in the Philippines is assured nex winter.

Meanwhile, the fact that some measure of local self government has been given the Filipinos does not mean that all trouble over there is ended. Congressman Hull, of Iowa, who is now there, regards the provincial governments already established as of a "hot house" variety, which is to say they are insecure and not likely to stand the chill blasts of experience. The Filipinos are poor, much of their country has been desolated by war, they have been squeezed by centuries of Spanish misrule, they contributed much to the support of the insurgent government and Aguinaldo's army, and on top of all this they have never done more in the way of developing their resources than the bare needs of the times have forced them to do. Yet they must be taxed to support their local governments and indirectly taxed to support the military government. Considerable burdens will rest on them for some time. That there will be complaint and in some instances revolt is most probable.

Yet today marks the beginning of what must inevitably be a good thing for the Filipinos. They are apt, have some elements of industry and their resources are bountiful. Under good rule they will prosper and in time become contented. If the Fourth of July, Nineteen Hundred and One, does not become established in their history as Independence Day, it may at least mark the time when was opened to them the door that leads to independence.

A CENTURY AND A QUARTER.

Midnight's discharge of noise throughout the country marked the end of the one hundred and twenty-fifth and the beginning of the one hundred and twenty-sixth year of American independence. As the lives of men go it is a long period. In the history of a great and enduring nation it is but a brief epoch. Yet in this short period the United States has expanded until it comprehends nearly half the continent, it has multiplied its population by twenty-five, grown to be the wealthiest as well as the most powerful nation on the globe and in this first year of the new century has demonstrated to the world that commercial supremacy is destined to be ours. Such achievements have never marked the history of any nation in time so brief.

One hundred years hence, if the world's civilized society shall have undergone no cataclysmic changes and the United States remains anchored to the rock of its foundation the greatness and power of this nation will completely overshadow any and all the nations of the old world. We lead in progress, in energy and in the boldness with which we grapple problems born of the world's ceaseless change. In another century this will be a nation wherein education is universal, special and aggressive. We can support a population of hundreds of millions. Our resources are limitless and more diverse than any other nation possesses. Splendor of such destiny as seems ours has never shone upon the pathway of any other nation. We need fear no dangers from without. Whatever shall menace our national integrity and security, whatever shall threaten the power and perpetuity of our government will do so from within.

Safety lies in a better citizenship that more deeply concerns itself with civic honesty than may be imputed to us today. The lust of power, the ravening for spoils, the prostitution of public place high and low to selfish advantage and the gain that cupidity seeks, the huckstering of public privileges to the avaricious and corrupt, the low value placed upon the honor of the seats of power and the apathy of a citizenship that tamely submits to these notorious and multiplying abuses each and altogether threaten the stability of our national foundation. But the situation is by no means gloomy. There is latent in our citizenship a sense of personal rights and public honor that will some day be provoked to righteous anger that will drive the scheming corrupt from their ill-gotten seats of power and purity the temples so defiled. The Fourth of July is a good time to think upon these things because it is the anniversary of a day when it was believed a new and better birthright of citizenship than the world had ever known had been vouchsafed to men for all time. We should make that meaning good.

SOME NEW FIREWORKS

This year's Fourth of July introduces many novelties in fire-works and fire-crackers. There is nothing of the ordinary fire-cracker about them, for noise is the least of their claims to fame. They sing and whistle and shoot stars and stripes, too, for that matter.

The whistling rockets are old, but the rockets that will whistle a tune, and a patriotic tune at that, are the newest thing of the season. They are very large, and the balls do the whistling as they are thrown into the air. The first ball takes the first measure of the air and the second ball carries the tune a bit farther, and so it goes on. When these balls have reached a certain height they explode and the usual shower of stars of many colors falls before the delighted spectators.

To go with the whistling rockets there are big pinwheels, which have a little battle all with themselves as they go round and round. With the first turn of the wheel there is to be heard the beating of the drum, then comes the bugle call, then the faint cracking of the outposts. Gradually, as the wheel whirls faster and faster, the battle noise grows louder and louder until the thick of the fight is on. These wheels are known as the San Juans and will probably be the most popular of this year's fireworks.

Another pinwheel, which will be used as a mate to the San Juan wheel, is one which gives the return of the troops. Again flags fly, drums beat and the tramp, tramp of the troops can be heard. Each spoke of the pinwheel has its part to do and does it with a hiss and a rattle.

Among the little traps for small children there are the houses that Jack built, with a hole in the chimney for the cracker, and the gunboat which is destroyed by a fire-cracker placed in the funnel. There is also a locomotive, which is set to running by the explosion of a fire-cracker.

In torpedoes there are all sizes, and the boy who has outgrown the tiny old-fashioned ones of paper and gravel may have them in sizes as large as his fist. The large torpedoes make as much noise as a small cannon and are calculated to cause many surprises. Something like these in their plan of explosion are the balls or marbles which are coated with detonating powder. The advantage the owner of this ball has over the owner of the torpedo is that he may shoot the same ball for an entire day and still there will be noise left in it. The only thing necessary is that the ball comes in contact with the sidewalk or the side of a building with sufficient force to cause an explosion.

On the other hand, the detorating powder with which the ball is coated is a powerful explosive and consequently dangerous to handle. Canes made in the same fashion as the balls are on sale this year, and if carelessly handled will prove more dangerous than amusing weapons. While it is great fun to make the Fourth a day of noise it is not necessary to risk one's life in so doing, and anything which will prove dangerous to you, and more particularly to other people, would better be left alone.

One of these same dangerous noisemakers is a fire-cracker of giant size, which upon exploding throws out three stars in as many directions. There is nothing particularly dangerous about stars if kept at a safe distance, but when the fire-cracker is carelessly thrown there is no way of telling in what direction the stars will shoot, and they are just as likely to hit the thrower as to hit someone else, and in either case the result would not be pleasant.

The serpent idea is taking a prominent place in the fire-works of this year, and you will find more kinds of snakes on the fire-works counter than you have ever heard of before. There are snakes that run round and round and those that go straight forward with a funny little wriggle of their bodies, and there are still others that run backwards for more than a yard and then jump into the air.

In the animal line there are barking dogs and squealing pigs and mewing cats done up into the shape of a fire-cracker and going off with a pop.

OFFER BIG REWARD IN GOLD

$5,000 FOR THE APPREHENSION OF THE ROBBERS

Who Held Up the Great Northern Flyer Near Wagner, Mont., Wednesday—Booty Large.

St. Paul, Minn., July 4.—Upon receipt of the news of the hold-up of the Great Northern Flyer near Wagner a reward of $5,000 in gold for the apprehension of the robbers was at once posted by the Great Northern officials. All the facts in the case were at once communicated to David Allman, chief of the Great Northern secret service. The large amount of the reward is taken as evidence that the booty was heavy, but the exact amount taken has not been given out.

News of the robbery and the reward was wired to all the principal points on the line and the police and detective forces of all the important points in the northwestern territory were notified.

The train was No. 3, westbound, and was held up about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon 196 miles east of Great Falls, Mont., by three masked men, who blew open the express car with dynamite and secured the entire contents of the through express, estimated at $83,000.

One of the robbers boarded the train a few miles from the scene of the hold-up. When the train reached the place where his confederates were lying in wait in a ravine alongside the track he pulled the bell cord, and as the train slowed down, jumped onto the engine and presenting a rifle, forced the fireman and engineer to abandon their engine.

As the passengers began to look out of the windows a fusilade of shots swept alongside of the coaches and was continued for several minutes. Dynamite was quickly exploded in the express car, tearing the car to pieces. The robbers then mounted good horses and rode away to the Bad Lands. A posse is in pursuit, but capture is improbable. Three passengers who ventured to look out of the windows in the day coach were struck by bullets, but not seriously injured.

PLACE LOSS AT $40,000.

Helena, Mont., July 4.—It is stated here that the three men who held up Great Northern railway train No. 3, westbound, near Malta, Mont., yesterday secured, $40,000 in cash, in addition to securities of considerable value.

The robbers did not attempt to go through the passenger coaches.

Although large posses are scouring the country in all directions no trace of the gang has yet been secured.

Auditor Douglass and Brakeman Blake, who were severely wounded by the volleys fired along the sides of the train, are resting easily at the Great Falls hospital.

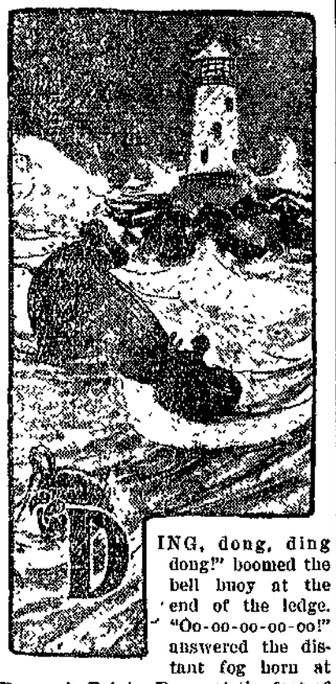
The Fourth at Sebogan Light

BY JOE LINCOLN.

[Copyright, 1901, by Joe Lincoln.]



ING, dong, ding dong!" boomed the bell buoy at the end of the ledge. "Oo-oo-oo-oo-oo!" answered the distant fog horn at Ramsey's Point. Down at the foot of the lighthouse the surf hissed, roared and creamed over the seaweed covered rocks. Abner Dawes turned uneasily in his chair and glanced at the clock. It was half past 7 and the morning of the Fourth of July, 1898.

Luther Payne, the old ex-man-of-war's man and head light keeper, sat near by reading the day before yesterday's newspaper. He was eagerly spelling out every word of intelligence from the blockading fleet at Santiago, for he had served under Farragut, and the United States navy was his hobby, his pride and his idol. The breaking out of the war with Spain and Dewey's victory had thrown the old man into a tremendous excitement. But for the past two months Cervera's fleet had claimed all his attention.

When the fleet left Cadiz and started for the West Indies, he expressed the opinion that it was a "dead luck" and even went so far as to send up to S—— and order a liberal assortment of fireworks with which to celebrate its destruction. Every day since it had been penned up in Santiago harbor he had snorted his disgust because the "cowardly Greasers didn't come out and fight."

"Nothin new!" he snorted. "I'm 'fraid our ships'll never git a whack at them Greasers. Plaguy shame, I call it! How's the fog—thick as ever?"

"Yes, yes; thicker, if anything!" answered Abner disgustedly. "Guess my Fourth'll be spent about here."

"Too bad! I know when a feller makes up his mind ter ask a girl he wants ter git it over with as quick as possible. Sorter like havin a tooth out, ain't it?"

Abner paid little heed to this remark, but opened the door and stepped out on the iron gallery of the lighthouse. Sebogan light is built on the ledge of rocks which, submerged at high tide, marks the entrance to the harbor of the city of S——. The city itself is seven miles away. The nearest land to the light is Ramsey's Point, and that lies two miles to the west.

Now, the average young man would deem Ramsey's Point a dreary place in which to spend the Fourth, but Abner, who had been looking forward to the holiday for a week, thought of it as an ideal spot because Sadie Ainsworth lived there.

Sadie was an orphan whose father, a fisherman, had been drowned the year before, leaving her to care for her two little brothers. Abner, who became acquainted with her when he first took the post of assistant keeper at Sebogan, was now deeply in love. He had not spoken to the young lady on the subject as yet, but had made up his mind to go over to the Point on the Fourth of July, "pop the question" and learn his fate.

Luther, whose interest in his subordinate's love affair was second only to his interest in the navy, had willingly given the latter permission to take the day off, but the storm of the day before and the fog of today rendered it unsafe to leave the lighthouse in charge of but one man; so, unless the fog lifted, the trip would have to be postponed.

"Looks 's if 'twould stay thick all day, don't it?" said Mr. Payne, who had followed Abner out on the gallery. Abner grunted assent. The two men leaned over the iron rail and peered down into a mist so dense that the tower seemed to be floating in the clouds. Suddenly the head keeper spoke.

"Ab," he asked, "do you hear anybody callin?"

"No. Wait a minute, though! Seems 's if I did."

"I do, and I heard two or three times. Sounds like a woman's voice or a child's."

They both listened, and above the sounds of the sea and the bell they heard a shrill cry.

Luther made a speaking trumpet of his hands and through it sent a thunderous "Hello!"

The distant cry was repeated, this time seemingly by two voices.

"Children, sure!" said Luther. Then he bellowed, "What's the matter?"

"Help us! We're driftin in a dory!" came the reply.

The two men ran down the winding stairs, through the various rooms of the light and came out on the platform below the lower door. They were still 30 feet above the rocks, but an iron ladder led downward, and they descended swiftly.

The cry was heard again, this time much nearer.

"What little wind there is left is blowin right toward us," said Luther. "They'll pass close by, even if they don't run afoul of the ledge. If they git inter this surf, it'll be all day with 'em!"

Abner turned quickly, climbed up to and entered the door of the light and reappeared with a long coil of stout rope. One end of this he tied about his waist and the other he fastened to the lowest rung of the iron ladder.

"If they pass anywhere in sight," he said coolly, "I'm goin off ter 'em. You stand by fer pull me in when I'm ready."

A dim shape moved out of the fog, perched on the crest of a great roller. It swung onward and became a dory, without oars or sail and with two little figures perched in the stern. Abner saw that it would pass the point where he stood and strike an isolated rock just beyond. Without a word he plunged in and, striking out swiftly, seized the gunwale of the dory. He raised himself cautiously, rested with his chest on the gunwale and reached out his hands. The dory rose on a big breaker, descended and upset in a lather of foam. Luther, pulling frantically on the rope, drew his partner ashore. The latter had a small boy's coat gripped in each hand, and the boys themselves were inside of the coats.

When the quartet was safe in the living room of the lighthouse and the sobbing youngsters were getting warm and dry before the kitchen stove, Luther came into the room where his assistant was changing his clothes and said in an awestruck whisper:

"Abner, do you know who them children are?"

"Yes; I knew 'em when I first saw 'em in the dory. They're the Ainsworth boys."

"Yes, sir; that's exactly who they be—brothers of your gal! Blessed if it don't seem like the hand of Providence!"

The story told by the boys was this: They had the night before pleaded with their sister to be allowed to get up at 3 o'clock and go over to the village, where there was to be a bonfire. She had refused permission, and the youngsters had run away, climbing out of their bedroom window. Seeing the dory which belonged to a neighbor on the beach, they thought they would save time by rowing over to the next point and walking to the village from there. They became bewildered in the fog, lost their oars in the rough water beyond the point and had drifted across the bay over to the light.

They said their sister would not be alarmed if they did not return till night, because she would guess that they had run away to go to the fire and would suppose they had staid to dinner at Eddie Willis' uncle's house. Eddie was to have gone with them.

But the hours went by, and the fog showed no signs of lifting. The boys had a fine time for awhile, exploring the lighthouse and watching Abner clean the lantern. But at length they began to grow weary of these amusements and to remember that it was the Fourth and they had no firecrackers. Luther, who had been pondering for some time, said:

"Ab, it seems ter me as if these boys had been sent her, you understand, sorter providential like. Now, I ain't goin ter have their good time sp'iled. If they can't go ter the fireworks, why, by gum, the fireworks can come ter them!"

He went into his bedroom and returned dragging a wooden packing case. From it he took rockets, pinwheels, Roman candles and bombs galore.

"There!" he said, with a sigh. "I cal'lated ter fire these off when our fleet knocked them Spaniards out of water, but I don't see no chance of that happenin, so I'm goin ter put these ter a good use. I'm goin ter fire 'em off this evenin ter amuse these boys."

At 4 o'clock the fog was as thick as ever, but the surf had subsided, and the sea was comparatively smooth. The boys and the two keepers were out on the gallery arranging the last pieces of red fire. Then Luther said suddenly:

"Listen! Either I ain't got over this mornin's business or somebody's hailin us again!"

"Light ahoy!" came a voice over the water.

"Ahoy yerself!"

"Keep a-hollerin. We're tryin ter find yer!"

The four on the gallery "kept a-hollerin," as requested. Then a voice spoke just beneath them, a voice that three of them knew and loved.

"Oh, Abner," it said, "I'm in dreadful trouble! My little brothers are missing, and I'm afraid they have drifted out to sea in a boat. Have you seen or heard anything of them?"

And there below in a sailboat, with Mr. Willis at the tiller, sat Sadie Ainsworth.

The boys took it upon themselves to answer.

"Hello, Sadie!" they screamed. "Here we are! We're all right, and there's goin ter be lots o' fireworks!"

Sadie had met Mr. Willis that afternoon, found out from him that her brothers had not gone with Eddie, had traced their footsteps in the sand of the beach until she came to where they had taken the dory and had surmised the rest. Mr. Willis had offered to take his sailboat and put out in the fog, with the faint hope of rescuing the lost ones, and she had insisted on going with him.

The boys wanted their sister to remain at the light until evening and see the fireworks. Abner certainly did not attempt to dissuade her, and Luther warmly advocated her remaining.

"The fog's liftin a leetle now," he said. "Wait until by and by, and Ab'll take the boat and put you ashore."

So she decided to remain, and Mr. Willis went back alone. Luther lost no time in telling Miss Ainsworth of Abner's heroism in saving her brothers. He also kept discreetly out of the way and insisted that the boys should be with him, thus leaving the young couple alone.

The fog lifted after supper, and it was time for the fireworks. The boys and Luther were out on the gallery. The sea was shining smooth in the starlight, and a puffing tug was coming up the harbor.

Abner, with a face shining with joy till it looked like a full moon, rushed up the stairs and grasped the head keeper's hand in a mighty grip.

"It's all right, old man," he whispered triumphantly. "She says yes. She'll marry me."

"Hooray!" yelled Luther. "Blessed if that ain't pretty nigh as good as hearin that we'd licked the Spaniards!"

The tug had come abreast of the light house. Her skipper leaned out of the pilothouse and hailed the keeper.

"Hey, Lute!" he shouted. "Heard the news?"

"No. What news?"

"Why, from Santiago! The Spaniards tried ter run out of the harbor yesterday, and our fleet sunk every blessed ship of 'em. We didn't lose a vessel and only one man."

Mr. Payne stood like a statue for a moment. Then he dashed into the lighthouse and returned with a kerosene lamp. Knocking the chimney from the latter, he applied the blazing wick to a spot on the gallery rail. There was a sputter of fire, a crackle, and the lighthouse burst into a halo of glory. Rockets whizzed from the windows, blue lights, red lights and white lights shone everywhere; flowerpots blossomed on the roof, and Roman candles sent their stars upward.

"Great Scott!" shrieked the astounded tugboat captain. "I thought you hadn't heard of it!"

"I hadn't!" Luther was dancing like a madman.

"Then how on earth did you happen ter have all these things ready?"

"Providence! Providence has had command of this light all day long, and don't you forgit it!"

A Fourth of July Veteran

When I uster go barefooted, oh, how happy I would feel
Even if there was stun bruises on each bare an calloused heel,
Even if there was big patches in the seat an in the knee
O' the pants that Brother Billy had outgrown an lef' to me,
Even if but one suspender kep' 'em where they'd oughter be,
Fer the Fourth was always comin, an away all sorrers slunk
When I had a bunch o' crackers an a yard er two o' punk!

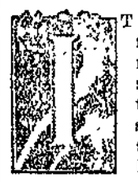
It was joy to touch the pigtails o' the crackers to the light,
Joy to see the pigtails burnin toward the fingers held so tight,
An to hear the crackers crackin was an all day long delight,
While to make a dandy "sisser" that would go off with a "siss,"
Scorchin half a dozen fingers, was the very greatest bliss.

Never seemed to git one-tenth enough o' "siss" an "bang" an "plunk"
When I had a bunch o' crackers an a yard er two o' punk!

Years an years ago this happened, an the boy that uster play
With the crackers an the "sissers" now is old an bent an gray,
But the Fourth's the same ez ever, fer the little children say,
"Come, grau'pa, an make a 'sisser;' come an light the punk fer us!"
An there ain't no use refusin, fer they'd make an awful fuss,
Though the fact is—jest between us—I ain't never dodged er shrunk
When they've got a bunch o' crackers an a yard er two o' punk!

EARLE HOOKER EATON.

The First Fourth



IT has always seemed funny to me," said the man from Boston, "that signers of the Declaration of Independence should have picked out such a slow place as Philadelphia to thus immortalize. I've always wondered why the Declaration wasn't promulgated in Boston."

"That's right, or, better yet, in New York," said the man from Manhattan. "Philadelphia must have been pretty slow—dead slow—in those old stage-coach days."

"You fellows make me tired," said the man from Philadelphia. "Why, at that time Philadelphia was the swiftest thing in the country. That was why it was selected by the signers and"—

"Swift? Huh! Chicago's the swiftest thing that ever happened. If they had known their business, they would have chosen Chicago," broke in the man from the World's fair city.

"Chicago!" shouted the Bostonian, the New Yorker and the Philadelphian in chorus.

"It was a howling wilderness!"

"It hadn't even happened then!"

"It wasn't on the map even!"

"That's right," sneered the Boston man. "Philadelphia was very swift at that time. It was four days after the Fourth arrived before you people heard about what had happened and got up a celebration—four whole days after. Talk about being slow!"

A broad smile of triumph slowly took possession of the Philadelphian's face.

"Oh, I don't know!" he cried. "If Philadelphia was slow, there were others. It is true it took us four days before we woke up and got to celebrating, but swift New York didn't get at it and up down old George III's statue until five days after the Fourth, and as for Boston—swift, lightning Boston—she didn't even wake up and hear about it and get to celebrating for two whole weeks! Slow? Just cut Philadelphia out after this, will you?"

Mother's Friend.

A Promoter of Health.

Mother's Friend puts comfort and ease in a married woman's back and limbs. She applies it externally—no dosing and swallowing of nasty drugs—no internal treatment at all. This liniment strengthens, invigorates, toughens and freshens the muscular tissues, gives them elasticity, makes the tendons supple and stimulates the sinews. It is intended solely for expectant mothers. If applied regularly throughout the whole period of pregnancy, morning sickness is escaped. It is soothing, and quiets the nerves.

Labor is quickly and almost painlessly passed. Bright sweet, healthy babies are born under the conditions wrought by Mother's Friend, and the mother's strength soon rallies. Women who dread the paramount issue are ignorant of the means that art and science do give toward assisting nature, in this event where the mother's life is of equal importance to that of the child who is born.

All reliable druggists have Mother's Friend, and the price is $1 per bottle.

Marion had easy picking with "Doggie's" men yesterday and won the game by a score of 5 to 1, with hands down. Fricken, pitching for Fort Wayne, allowed only seven hits and had but two errors behind him, but the boys couldn't hit the ball, and that tells the whole story. Danny Daub did the twirling for Wright's Kickers and he did it handsomely, too, as the box score appended will show. He had seven errors back of him and with all of that staring him in the face he allowed but four hits and won the game right in the box. It would have been a shut out but for an error by Kellner in the first inning, who tossed the ball out into the field, thinking that three were out, when Nattress, who was on third, trotted home. On the next ball pitched the side went out, and that is how close it was to a whitewash. Frank Miller was fined $10 and sent to the bench for getting into an argument with Hornung, the umpire, regarding the fitness of a certain ball to be in the game. It's a tolerably cold day when Hornung don't get a chance to show his authority by fining somebody. Following is the score:

OUR FOURTH IN FAR LANDS

HALF THE GLOBE'S GIRTH BETWEEN CELEBRATIONS.

At the Far North and Below the Equator the Flag Flies and the Day Will be Celebrated.

Strange people, in remote and widely separated places, are today witnessing the celebration of Independence day on the first Fourth of July of the twentieth century. The message which rang out from the old liberty bell above the little brick hall in Philadelphia 125 years ago has traveled swift and far in these last three years.

It will be repeated and indorsed at this anniversary by Americans living on American soil which is eternally bound in the Arctic ice. It will be read to Americans whose home is 900 miles south of the equator. While the rockets and Roman candles are closing the day in Maine the morning sun will be lighting the folds of the stars and stripes in the western confines of the republic. On the shores of the China sea the cannon of our navy will fire the salute to the union and little brown Americans will doubtless hear the roar with terror, fleeing to the woods of Palawan.

Black, brown, red, yellow and white are the skins of the people of the United States. They live as far north as human beings may exist, and they live naked under the equator's fierce suns. Wherever the flag has gone the national holiday will be celebrated in some fashion.

The most remote celebration of the Fourth on American soil is at Palawan. This is the most western station in the Philippine archipelago, at which it is expected at the navy department that a ship can be found today. It is safe to say that the natives of Palawan have no clear idea of the origin or import of the American feast, and the bellowing of the saluting cannon will doubtless be the first notice to the majority of the people of the island that they are due for a little celebrating.

The most northerly celebration is at Point Barrow, Alaska, where Commander Harry Knox has arrived with the Concord. This is seventy-two degrees north latitude and only about 1,000 miles from the pole. The government maintains a signal station there and at rare intervals sends one of its staunchest sea-going tugs to pay its brief visit. The country is snow and ice-bound and it is with difficulty that life can be maintained. On the Fourth of July the sun will be circling a short distance above the horizon, but the crew of the Concord will not be troubled with the heat. The man who hoists the flag will be wrapped to the eyes in heavy furs, and if the cabin boy decides to set off any firecrackers he will have to wear warm mittens. The special dinner served out to the men in honor of the day will consist largely of hot soups and canned vegetables, and will be consumed in the company of red-hot stoves.

While this is taking place there is another celebration—still on American soil—of a very different character. In the island of Tutuila, in the Samoan group, there is a repetition of the celebration held April 17, when the American flag was formally raised there. Tutuila is fifteen degrees south of the equator and is the southernmost American possession. Capt. B. F. Tilly, who is governor, believes in teaching the natives to reverence American customs and institutions. In addition to dressing ship and firing twenty-one guns from the American man-of-war in the harbor of Pago Pago, Captain Tilly will give shore leave to his men and invite the Samoans to join in the games, feasts and general jubilation.

The most eastern celebration will be in the island of Porto Rico. The day dawned there just twelve hours ahead of the day in the island of Luzon. The twentieth parallel of latitude, which passes through Porto Rico, runs just one degree north of the island of Luzon, and the distance between the two points is 180 degrees, or half the circumference of the earth.

In the city of Manila the Fourth has twice before been celebrated. Naval officers who were with Dewey's fleet remember well the first celebration. It came two months after the famous victory at that critical time when the ships of Germany, England and the other European powers were crowding one another in the bay, and when it seemed even to the coolest Americans that a clash with Germany was inevitable. That night the English men-of-war dressed ship with thousands of electric lights, and drawing away from the other vessels took their place close to the American fleet. The other nations had not paid any particular attention to the notice which it is the custom to send to other ships in a harbor informing them that the day is a national holiday; and the special attention of the British was accepted as an assurance that if trouble came they would be with us.

The celebration of Independence day in Manila a year ago was marked by meetings in the local theaters and halls, patriotic speeches in English, Spanish and the Tagal language, band concerts, bunting and other festivities. It is planned this year to train a chorus of native children to sing the "Star Spangled Banner," "The Red, White and Blue," and other national songs. The Declaration of Independence will be read in the schools in different tongues, and on the Luneta the salute to the Union will be fired.

The Princeton is stationed at the island of Cebu today, and its cannon will remind the natives that they are citizens of a free republic. The war department expects to have one of the "tinclads" not far from the courts of the sultan of Sulu, and the officers will inform his majesty that the day is a holiday for all Americans.

In the distant and lonesome island of Guam there will be plenty of celebration. Following the example of Captain Leary, his successor, Captain Seaton Schroeder, will issue a few ringing manifestoes. The natives will be told that the day marks the birth of the nation of which they are now a part, and that it is their duty and privilege to set off fire-crackers, shoot pistols, burn pinwheels and have as good a time as possible, all the while remembering why they do it, and being careful not to burn their fingers.

In Cuba there are 6,000 American soldiers who will do a little celebrating, even though the Cubans do not regard the day as an occasion for unmitigated joyousness. The Isle of Pines, south of Cuba, is not conceded to the Cubans, and may be regarded as part of the United States. There is a military reservation there where the day will be appropriately noted.

In the Hawaiian islands the day will be celebrated much as it is in the United States. In addition to the naval stations, there are plenty of former residents of the states who have gone to the islands to live. Also there are plenty of crackers in the Chinese shops, not to mention pinwheels, "nigger chasers," sky rockets and torpedoes.

The lonesomest spot in Uncle Sam's broadening domains is Wake island. It sticks up the Pacific about half way between Hawaii and the Philippine archipelago. It has not even the company of other islands. The United States acquired it, and made it a naval station, and here in the middle of the Pacific the union will be saluted and the flag will fly 2,000 miles from the nearest of its starred and striped fellows.

SEEK HIDDEN CASH.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 4.—The wife and six children of Ira Smith, of Youngstown, who was killed by lightning while plowing ten days ago, have been searching night and day since his death for $15,000 in cash, mostly gold, he was known to have hidden on the farm. Smith was eccentric and had no faith in banks. On his person when he was killed he had $1,300. A few days before he had brought home $2,600 in gold and said he would hide it with his other money. He never told members of the family the hiding place, and said that when he should be dying he would let them know where they could find their inheritance. A few years ago his son shot and seriously wounded him. The old man then remarked that it was fortunate he was not killed instantly, as by his death no one would know where to look for the money. All the likely spots about the farm have been examined and in places holes have been dug in the earth. At first the family made the search as secretly as possible, but now their labors are watched by many persons.

No woman can be strong and healthy of body who is the victim of those womanly diseases which are often responsible for feminine sufferings.

Women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of diseases of the womanly organs, say that work doesn't tire them any more. "Favorite Prescription" regulates the periods, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," neither opium, cocaine or any other narcotic.

STRUCK BY BRIDGE

FIREMAN DAVID BALTZELL INJURED IN CHICAGO.

GENEROUS RAILWAY MEN

THEY AID A FORMER COMRADE'S DISTRESSED FAMILY.

JUNE FREIGHT BUSINESS

TWENTY CAR LOADS SHORT OF THE BEST RECORD.

Henry David Baltzell, a Pittsburg fireman residing at 35 Walnut street, was seriously, though not dangerously, injured in Chicago last night. He was riding on an engine pulling an extra freight train and was struck by the side railing of the elevated bridge crossing Fifty-seventh street. Mr. Baltzell, it is presumed, was standing upon the step leading to the cab, looking beneath the engine, when struck. The blow was not sufficient to knock him from the step and he climbed into the cab and reported the accident to the engineer. He was hurt too badly to continue his run and was removed to a hospital, where he is now resting fairly well The accident occurred on the Chicago Terminal division of the road and the particulars were not reported here. The injured man will come home in a few days.

CONDUCTOR HAS KNEE HURT.

John P. Herring, a conductor on the Pittsburg road, while en route here with a train from Crestline, last night, had one of his knees badly bruised and wrenched at Bucyrus, Ohio. The injury was most painful, but Mr. Herring did not abandon his run. He thinks he will be all right in a few days.

BURIED THEIR COMRADE.

About sixty members of the Fort Wayne lodge, No. 136, B. of R. T, turned out at the funeral of the late Frederick C. Krudop at 10 o'clock this morning. The funeral was under the auspices of that order and was most solemn and impressive. Rev. Samuel Wagenhals was the officiating clergyman. The pall bearers were selected from the ranks of the brotherhood and the personnel was as follows: John P. McCleary, J. H. Hanley, L. E. Williamson, T. J. Kelker, W. S. Echart and E. J. Girard.

NEW UNLOADING APPARATUS.

A quick unloading machine for use in grading and ballasting railways attracts considerable attention from men interested in that class of work. It is at present standing upon tracks at the Pittsburg round house, but will be taken to Donaldson, Ind., this afternoon and tomorrow put in service in making the improvements now in progress at that place. This machine in appearance resembles the windlass hoisting apparatus in use at the coal mines. It has two cross connected steam cylinders, which are connected by cog with a big cable windlass, which pulls the unloading plows over the cars. The machine gets its steam from the locomotive boiler and for this purpose engine 58 has been fitted up with connecting pipes and other paraphernalia. This engine went to Donaldson this morning to get ready for operations in the morning. The unloader is the property of P. T. Clifford & Sons, who have the contract for doing the work at Donaldson.

EXCURSION TO CEDAR POINT

The Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western road is making great preparations for an excursion to Cedar Point, which it is proposed shall eclipse all previous events of that character. The excursion will take place Sunday, July 21, and the train will be in charge of Conductor F. I. Stump. Cedar Point is a short distance out from Sandusky, Ohio, and is a favorite resort for the people of that section of the country.

NICKEL PLATE SUED.

The Findlay Courier says: "P. S. Shoupe has sued the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railway company for damages in the sum of $10,000. Mr. Shoupe is the administrator of John A. Shoupe, deceased, who was accidently killed at Linden station while in the performance of his duty as brakeman on the road. He was shifting or rearranging some freight cars standing on a "Y," orders to do so having been given by the conductor of the train. When he stepped between the cars to make a coupling, it is claimed that his foot caught in a frog, which held him fast, and he was run over by the cars, receiving injuries from which he died in thirty minutes. The plaintiff claims that the accident was due to negligence on the part of the defendant company in not repairing or filling in the frog with sheet steel spring guard or wrought iron appliances approved by the commissioner of railroads and telegraph. The deceased was unmarried and the only support of his parents, who belive they have suffered damages by the death of their son in the amount asked."

JUNE FREIGHT BUSINESS,

Mr. H. M. Elliott, local agent for the Indiana Car Service association, reports that there were handled in this city in June, in addition to the business passing through the warehouses, 1,592 car loads of freight, against 1,612 car loads in May and 1,408 car loads in June, 1900. Building material, Mr. Elliott says, constituted a large part of the shipments. The factories and particularly those engaged in making iron products, also did an unusual business last month. Last May was the best business month since the establishment of the local car service agency here, and June comes next, with only twenty short of the May business.

HEARTS BIGGER THAN PURSES.

Yesterday The Sentinel referred to the purse presented to Mrs. Walter L. Stanley by the employes of the Nickel Plate and today it takes pleasure in recording another generous deed on the same line. Many of the men were out on the road when the subscriptions for the purse were taken last Monday and, as they entertained a high regard for their old comrade and great sympathy for his afflicted family, they made up another purse—larger than the first one—and it now awaits the return to the city of Mrs. Stanley. This act illustrates more fully the generous, sympathetic character of Nickel Plate employes. They never turn aside an appeal for aid, and particularly when the beneficiary is an unfortunate comrade or the family of a deceased friend and associate.

WENT OFF THE DOCK TRACKS.

A car loaded with coal went off the end of the coal dock tracks at the Nickel Plate yards yesterday and dropped about twelve feet to the ground beneath. The accident was caused by a defective coupling, which prevented the engineer from checking the car when the signal was given. The docks were considerably damaged, though the car escaped with slight damage.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Earl Stevens has resigned a position in the Wabash shops.

Assistant Master Mechanic John Dalman, of the Pittsburg, is fishing at Rome City today.

Nickel Plate Fireman Herb Minser, who was sick three or four days, has resumed work on the road.

Pittsburg Brakemen L. A. Melick, B. W. Collins and V. Weber are taking a lay off to enjoy the Fourth.

Nickel Plate Engineer Charley Titus has taken a vacation for the purpose of visiting friends in Ohio.

Passenger Fireman Charles Souders, who was sick, took his place in the Nickel Plate service yesterday.

Conductor P. O. Dinklage, of the Pennsylvania, is off duty to spend the Fourth with his family in the city.

After a ten days' visit with relatives and friends in the west, Conductor T. H. Seaney has returned to his duties on the Nickel Plate.

Nickel Plate Car Inspector C. Youtz, who had been off duty on account of the death of his brother, reported for work last evening.

Nickel Plate Conductor Fred Deahl has taken a lay off to enjoy the Fourth with his family, who have just returned from a visit in Ohio.

Pittsburg Conductor W. A. Current, who had been looking after private business a few days, resumed his duties on the road this morning.

Fierman E. L. Tenny is sick and Fireman G. F. Conrad is detained at home by the sickness of his wife. Both are employed by the Pittsburg.

Supt. S. K. Blair and Chief Supervisor C. B. Hoyt, of the Nickel Plate, made a trip over the Third district yesterday, on a special train, arriving here at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Rogers, wife of Engineer Charles Rogers, of the Pittsburg road, and their son have returned from St. Johns, Kas., where they were guests of relatives a week or two.

Nickel Plate Fireman Stormes got a piece of steel in one of his eyes yesterday and suffered intensely before the metal was removed. He is off duty in consequence of the accident.

Nicholas J. Murphy, a conductor on the Grand Rapids and Indiana road, has taken a leave of absence, which he will devote to sight-seeing at Buffalo and the Pan-American exposition.

Mr. F. S. Hunting, superintendent of sales of the Fort Wayne Electric company, has returned from a most successful business trip to the east. He was absent from the city about two weeks.

Fred Roth received a painful wound on his right hand yesterday by letting the member come in contact with a rapidly revolving emery wheel. Dr. L. T. Sturgis dressed the hand. Mr. Roth is employed at the Olds Wagon works.

Engineers Frank Davis and Bert Baughman and Fireman W. H. Anderson, of the Nickel Plate, are taking a lay off in order that they may fittingly observe the national holiday.

Directors of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad have authorized a new bond issue of $50,000,000. Between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 will be used to pay for track elevation in Chicago.

Brakeman J. S. Carey, who had made only one trip on the Nickel Plate after beginning service with that company, is sick and will probably be unable to take his run out for a few days.

Pittsburg Fireman J. M. Brown was overcome by heat yesterday afternoon and had to abandon his run. He still suffers slightly from the effects of the attack, but will be all right in a day or two.

President Joseph Ramsey, jr, of the Wabash, announces by circular from St. Louis headquarters that the office of general manager is abolished The duties heretofore performed by him will be assumed by the president.

David Zimmerman, a carpenter employed at the Lake Erie and Western shops, is off duty for the purpose of taking treatment from Dr. Havice for an affection of the ears. He hopes to have his hearing completely restored.

Mr. Reilly, employed in the Wabash machine shop, had a wrist injured Tuesday and is now threatened with serious results. It seems that some poisonous substance entered the wound and caused it to become badly inflamed.

Saxby's Travelers' Magazine says the passenger conductor is a much abused individual. He is regarded as the target for all sorts of criticism; the praise he gets comes only at intervals, and his deserts are far above those he receives.

East of Pittsburg the Pennsylvania railroad manufactures its own ice and sets car loads daily at the leading consuming points. At Altoona the employes are allowed to remove what ice remains in the car at the close of the day, and there is considerable of it.

The track layers engaged in building the Fort Wayne and Southwestern railroad are only a short distance from Roanoke and will reach that village in a day or two. It is believed they will reach the St. Mary's river bridge before the structure is completed.

S. W. Hubbard, general baggage agent of the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis railroad, has tendered his resignation, effective August 1. He has been with the Memphis system nearly thirty years, and is crowded out as a result of the Memphis-Frisco consolidation.

Indianapolis Journal: "The Cincinnati, Richmond and Muncie railroad has decided to run through Peru by way of the old canal bed, that is, if it can gain possession of the property from A. N. Dukes and the Shirk estate by condemnation proceedings. The owners will object seriously, as they are interested in an electric line that will use the canal from Fort Wayne to Lafayette."

C. H. Newton, Wabash freight agent at Toledo, who attended the Local Freight Agents' association's convention at Denver in June and later went to California to visit his mother, would be surprised to read the following item, which appeared in Wednesday's Indianapolis Journal: "C. H. Newton, for years agent of the Wabash lines at Toledo, who a few weeks ago went to California quite ill, returned yesterday much improved in health."

STORY OF THE FIRECRACKER

HOW THEY ARE MADE IN CHINA FOR AMERICANS.

Entire Families Engaged in Their Manufacture—Pitifully Small Wages Paid.

As the Fourth of July approaches, the juvenile fancy exults in anticipation of the delight afforded by that small but abtrusive article—the firecracker. This delight may be said to be confined exclusively to children and youths, and is hardly shared by the older members of society, who like to sleep in the mornings, to drive in the evenings, and object to having the digits of their tender offsprings blown off by injudicious use of these combustibles.

The Chinese are responsible for firecrackers, and great quantities of those articles find their way into this country every year from the Flowery Kingdom. There were exported in one year 26,705,733 pounds of fire-crackers from China, the greater portion of which were shipped to this country. It is estimated that on or about this forthcoming Fourth of July considerably over five millions of crackers will lend their vociferous aid in expressing the patriotism of the nation. The value of the average yearly export of these little noisemakers is computed by the Chinese imperial customs at a sum equaling about a million and a half of American money in gold. The export this year will, from all indications, prove an exception, because of the disturbances in China.

The exports represent but a small fraction of the amount manufactured and used in China. There are no large manufactories. The crackers are made in small houses and in the shops where they are sold. In the latter places the proprietor of the shop, his wife (or wives), and children do the work. No record is kept of the number made and sold, and no estimate is possible of their cost.

The use of crackers is universal in China, and has been as far back as history records. It is most probable that in the beginning they were used to frighten away evil spirits. Now they are most frequently an expression of good feeling or of ceremonious compliment. They are used at weddings, births and funerals, at festivals, religious, civil and military ceremonies, at New Year, to salute persons about to make a journey and, in fact, on all occasions out of the ordinary routine.

In making fire-crackers, only the cheapest kind of straw paper, which can be produced in the immediate locality where the crackers are made, is used for the body of the cracker. A little finer paper is used for the wrapper. A piece of straw paper, 9x30 inches, will make twenty-one crackers one and one-half inch long, and one-fourth of an inch in diameter. The powder is also of the cheapest grade, and is made in the locality where used. It costs 150 to 175 cash per catty, or 6 to 7 cents gold per pound.

For the fuse a paper (called "leather" in Shanghai) is used, which is imported from Japan and is made from the inner lining of the bamboo. In other places a fine rice paper is used, generally stiffened slightly with buckwheat flour paste, which, the Chinese say, adds to its inflammability. A strip of this paper one-third of an inch wide by fourteen inches (a Chinese foot) long, is laid on a table and a very little powder put down the middle of it with a hollow bamboo stick. A quick twist of the paper makes the fuse ready for use. An eye-witness thus describes the entire process of manufacture:

"The straw paper is first rolled by hand around an iron rod, which varies in size according to the size of cracker to be made. To complete the rolling a crude machine is used. This consists of two uprights supporting an axis, from which is suspended by two arms a heavy piece of wood, slightly convex on the lower side. There is just room between this swinging block and the top of the table to place the cracker. As each layer of paper is put on by hand, the cracker is placed on the table and the suspended weight is drawn over the roll, thus tightening it until no more can be passed under the weight. For the smallest "whip" cracker the woodman uses for compression, instead of this machine, a heavy piece of wood, fitted with a handle like that of a carpenter's plane. In filling crackers, 200 to 300 are tied together tightly in a bunch. Red clay is spread over the end of the bunch and forced into the end of each cracker with a punch. The powder is poured in at the other end of the cracker. With the aid of an awl the edge of the paper is turned in at the upper end of the cracker and the fuse inserted through this.

"A variety of cracker I do not remember to have seen in the United States," continues the narrator, "but which is popular in China, is the 'twice-sounding.' It has two chambers separated by a plug of clay, through which runs a connecting fuse. There is also a fuse extending from the powder in the lower chamber through the side of the cracker. When the cracker is to be fired it is set on end and fire set to the fuse. The powder exploding in the chamber throws the cracker high in the air, where the second charge is exploded by fire from the fuse extending through the plug between the two chambers. In the manufacture of these the clay is first tamped in with a punch to form the separate plug. The lower chamber is then loaded with powder and closed by turning over the paper at the end. The upper chamber is loaded and closed with clay. A hole is punched in the side of the lower chamber with an awl, and the fuse inserted through this opening."

At Canton the ordinary sized cracker (one and one-half inches long by one-fourth of an inch in diameter) costs one tael (62 cents) for 10,000 for export. At Hankow the best quality of this size costs one tael for 5,000, while of the second quality 20,000 can be bought for one tael. At Chunking 15,000 of the ordinary crackers can be bought for one tael. At Shanghai one tael will purchase 5,000 of the ordinary size, while the largest sell for $5 per thousand. These prices are probably only a shade above the actual cost of manufacture. The small manufacturers sell to Chinese compradores, who buy as agents of foreign firms and ship the crackers in bundles to the sea coast, where they are packed in boxes which cost about 4 taels ($2.50) per hundred and hold 250,000 fire crackers.

Apart from the fact that all the material used is native and produced where the crackers are manufactured, and that transportation does not enter into the cost, the wonderful cheapness of manufacture is accounted for by the kind of labor used and the wages paid. The items of cost of plant and interest on it are eliminated by the fact that the crackers are made in the homes of the workmen and in the shops where they are sold. The hours of labor are from 6 a. m. to 11 p. m., and there are seven working days in each week. Four-fifths of the crackers consumed in China are made by the families of those who sell them, these people, of course, receiving no wages. Of the paid work, a very large proportion is done by women and children, who are paid by the piece.

It is estimated that thirty women and ten men can make 100,000 crackers per day, for which the women will receive 5 cents each and the men about 7 cents each. An apprentice is bound for four years and during that time receives only his board. At the end of that period he will receive, if he is a fairly good workman, 150 cash per day, or 7 cents in United States money. An expert at the trade receives 200 cash per day, or 10 cents gold. Workmen at this trade receive about the average rate of wages paid for common labor in this section of China. The trade is considered unhealthy and dangerous and therefore not desirable.

WHAT MAKES AN ORATOR

In my opinion, says Senator George F. Hoar in Scribner's, the two most important things that a young man can do to make himself a good public speaker are:

First—Constant and careful written translations from Latin or Greek into English.

Second—Practice in a good debating society.

It has been said that all the greatest parliamentary orators of England are either men whom Lord North saw or men who saw Lord North—that is, men who were conspicuous as public speakers in Lord North's youth, his contemporaries, and the men who saw him as an old man when they were young themselves. This would include Bolingbroke and would come down only to the year of Lord John Russell's birth. So we should have to add a few names, especially Gladstone, Disraeli, John Bright and Palmerston. There is no great parliamentary orator in England since Gladstone died. I once, a good many years ago, looked at the biographies of the men who belonged to that period and were famous as great orators in the parlament or in court, to find, if I could, the secret of their power. With the exception of Lord Erskine and of John Bright, I believe everyone of them trained himself by careful and constant translation from Latin or Greek and frequented a good debating society in his youth.

Brougham trained himself for extemporaneous speaking in the Speculative society, the great theater for debate for the University of Edinburgh. He also improved his English style by translations from Greek, among which is his well known version of the "Oration on the Crown."

Canning's attention, while at Eton, was strongly turned to extemporaneous speaking. They had a debating society, in which the marquis of Wellesley and Charles Earl Grey had been trained before him, in which they had all the forms of the house of commons—speaker, treasury benches and an opposition. Canning was also disciplined in the habit of translation.

QUEER ACCIDENT TO HORSE.

This morning Adolph Haller, the West Main street butcher, lost a valuable horse under peculiar circumstance. His clerk, a young lad, was riding the animal bareback and the horse was not traveling faster than a walk. Flies bothered the horse considerably, and while he was frantically endeavoring to dislodge some of the pests, presumably on his belly, he made a lunge with his right foot, wrenched himself and fell to the ground. Dr. Dodge, who happened to pass a moment later, was called and found that the horse had broken his front "elbow," the joint in the front leg, next to the body. The efforts of the horse in trying to kick forward with his hind leg probably wrenched him in such a manner that the bone in the front leg was snapped off short. Anyway the leg was broken and Officer Schlaudroff being called, after a short examination, shot the animal. The accident occurred at the corner of Monroe and Wayne streets.

THREE AT A TIME.

Charles Kruger, Will Rogers and Charles Fink will remember the Fourth for some time to come. The lads were shooting off a toy cannon this morning, and one of the charges exploded prematurely while the boys were getting ready to touch it off. The Kruger boy received the charge on the left side of his face, and the left eye is so badly injured that the sight is ruined and the optic may have to be removed.

HEAT RECORD TODAY.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 4.—Frequent heavy showers during the last 24 hours has, it is thought, effectually broken the hot spell. At 10 o'clock this morning the mercury stood at 77 degrees. The sun has been obscured by clouds all morning and the weather is threatening. But two deaths from heat have been reported today and both were persons stricken on Tuesday. Figures from the bureau of health show that during the wave of torridity there were 97 deaths from heat and 192 prostrations. This record has never been equalled.

St. Louis, July 4.—At 8 a. m. the government thermometer registered 86, or 6 higher than at the same time yesterday.

Kansas City, July 4.—8 a. m.—Mercury 90, four higher than yesterday. Three prostrations were reported during the night which was insufferably hot.

Cincinnati, July 4.—At 9 a. m. the thermometer indicated 76. No deaths and no prostrations were reported up to that hour.

Cleveland, July 4.—At 10 o'clock this morning the government thermometer registered 81 with a pleasant north breeze. No deaths or prostrations from heat have been reported during the past twelve hours.

CAUSED BY CANNON CRACKER.

Charles Disney, twelve years old, residing on West Fourth street, held a cannon cracker in his hand too long after the fuse had been ignited. The cracker exploded in the boy's face, the powder lodging under the skin and causing painful burns. Dr. Stults attended him.

A lad named Farnan, residing on Pritchard street, was struck on the head by a stone thrown by a companion and received a very painful scalp wound.

An egg train of twelve refrigerator cars left Newton, Kas., the other day for California.

KNIVES, PISTOLS AND STONES

FIGURED IN AN EAST END FIGHT LAST NIGHT.

Trouble is Kept From the Officers—Notes in Police Circles Today.

There was a vicious fight last night at the corner of Winch street and the Wabash railroad. The police department was informed of the fight by telephone and Officer Richardson was sent out to investigate it. He could learn very little about it except that William Schwier, one of the participants, was rendered hors du combat by being hit in the pit of the stomach by a stone. Knives were drawn, but so far as the officers could learn no one was cut and several revolver shots were fired without effect. Further investigation will be made by the officers, and as two or three of the parties to the scrap, aside from Schwier, are known, arrests may follow in a day or two.

MINOR POLICE NOTES.

The saloonkeepers arrested for violating the screen ordinance on Sunday evening, will have their hearing tomorrow afternoon at the 2 o'clock performance at the city hall.

There was no police court this morning and so far as known there will be no matinee, there not having been arrests made during the day.

Jeff Meyers has been paroled and has returned from the prison north and will go to work on T. E. Ellison's dairy farm. Jeff is a harmless chap, whose besetting sin has always been an uncontrollable thirst. He has served three terms north and innumerable jail sentences, but says that this time he has cut everything out for sure.

The police have been instructed to arrest all persons found using guns pistols or other firearms today. The mayor says that all the noise that is necessary can be made by the contrivances made solely for the purpose of raising Cain.

Captain Whitney last night captured a cannon which is almost big enough to mount in one of the parks. He found a party of boys having the thing in charge, and although he did not hear it go off, and the boys denied having fired it, he thought it a dangerous thing to have parading around the streets, so he took charge of it and locked it up in the patrol box at the corner of Calhoun and Williams street. He told the boys to call for it after the Fourth.

A plate glass in the front of Henry Auth's place at 138 Calhoun street was broken last night. A peculiar feature of the accident is that no one about the place has any idea when it occurred.

COURT NEWS.

The news in the courts today can be covered in a sentence—there is none. The court house offices are all closed, the justice stores are locked up tight and police court failed to materialize.

NEW GOVERNOR TAKES CHARGE

Judge William H. Taft Installed as Civil Ruler of the Philippines Today---Three Natives to Go on the Commission.

Manila, July 4.—Civil government in the Philippines was auspiciously inaugurated today. Commissioner Taft was escorted by General MacArthur and General Chaffee from the palace to a great temporary tribune on the opposite side of the plaza Palacio. Standing on a projecting center of the tribune, Mr. Taft took the oath of office as civil governor of the Philippine islands, the oath being administered by Chief Justice Arellano. Governor Taft was then introduced by General MacArthur, the guns of Fort Santiago being fired by way of a salute.

A feature of the inaugural address of Governor Taft was the announcement that on September 1, 1901, the commission would be increased by the appointment of three native members, Dr. Wardo Detavera, Benito Legarda and Jose Luzuriaga. Before the first of September departments will be instituted as follows, the heads being members of the United States Philippine commission:

Interior—Worcester.
Commerce and Police—Wright.
Justice and Finance—Ide.
Public Instruction—Moses.

Of the twenty-seven provinces organized Governor Taft said the insurrection still exists in five. This will cause the continuance of the military government in these sections. Sixteen additional provinces are reported without insurrections, but as yet they have not been organized. Four provinces are not ready for civil government. Governor Taft said that with the concentration of troops in larger garrisons it would be necessary for the people to assist

TWO BIG FIRES IN EASTERN CITIES

Baltimore, July 4.—The six-story brick and iron building on the corner of North and Lexington streets, directly opposite the city hall and known as the "Hoen" building, was completely destroyed by fire shortly after 7 o'clock this morning. The fire originated in the third floor, but its cause is still undetermined.

It took fully an hour to get the flames under control and when this was done the building was found to be completely gutted and its contents destroyed. All of the floors except the first were occupied by A. Hoen & Co., lithographers and printers. Their loss is a serious one and may reach $300,000, as they had many valuable cuts and lithographic apparatus which it is almost impossible to replace. The other occupants of the building, all of whom are on the first floor, are the Southern Electric company, the Hammond Typewriter company, the Cash Coal company, Gately & Haskell, bookbinders; Baltimore County Mutual Fire Insurance company and the Belgravia Land company. No detailed statement of the losses of these concerns are as yet attainable, but a rough estimate places the damage at $150,000. The loss on the building will probably reach $200,000, making the total loss about $650,000, all of which is said to be covered by insurance.

ANOTHER AT PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, July 4.—The big dressed beef storage warehouse of A. A. Jewett & Co., Philadelphia agents of Swift & Co., of Chicago, was almost entirely destroyed by fire today, entailing a loss of $307,000. The fire broke out at 8:30 a. m. in the curing department, on the sixth floor of the building, and in half an hour the three top floors were a mass of flames. The lower portion of the building was damaged by water and the immense stock carried by the company was nearly all destroyed. The big ice plant adjoining the storeage warehouse, together with 300 tons of ice, was also destroyed.

SIX BAGS OF GOLD ARE MISSING

Officials Seek to Locate $30,000 Which Has Disappeared from the San Francisco Mint---Director Roberts Talks.

San Francisco, July 4.—Concerning the report that a shortage has been discovered in the San Francisco branch mint, the Chronicle today says:

Six bags of gold, each containing $5,000 in $20 gold pieces, have disappeared from the mint, and no trace of the thief has been discovered, although Superintendent Leach and his force, assisted by Director of the Mint Roberts and his staff of experts, have been at work on the mystery since June 29.

The annual count of the coin, amounting to $25,000,000, began last Friday. On Saturday six bags were found to be missing from the cashier's vault. As the cashier's books tallied with those of the other departments, the officials were forced to the conclusion that somebody acquainted with the inside affairs of the mint had taken the money.

Director of Mint Roberts, of Washington, made the following statement:

"We have been very reluctant to conclude that a shortage exists. We have fought against the belief that there is anything wrong, but after three days' work in checking calculations and going over the count we have still to face the situation of $30,000 less in coin than the books call for.

"There appears to be no escape from the conclusion that some one or more persons employed in the mint has been faithless to the trust reposed in him or them. There is a possibility of an over-payment to a depositor. It is improbable, however, that so large an over-payment could be made."

Both Superintendent Leach and Director Dimmick declared that suspicion could not point to Cashier Cole, since his books were in perfect condition and called for the amount missing.

SAYS CASHIER IS SHORT.

Washington, July 4.—A telegram has been received at the mint bureau from Director Roberts, who is in San Francisco, confirming the report of the disappearance of government funds from the mint in that city. He says the cashier of that mint is $30,000 short, but gives no particulars of his investigation and ventures no surmise as to the cause of the shortage. As Mr. Roberts is on the ground, the mint officials here decline to speculate as to what course may be pursued for the protection of the government.

Decision in the Ross Case Has Aroused Popular Indignation at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, July .—The railroading of John Ross into the insane asylum and his delivery yesterday by by Judge Leathers, who pronounced him sane has aroused popular indignation against the system and a thorough investigation is now demanded. Two other cases have occurred and the victims set at liberty. The grand jury will investigate all recent cases. Dr. F. A. Morrison, president of the board of health, says that the board should investigate the dispensary physicians who are charged with railroading people into the insane asylum for fees even if the grand jury fails to indict them, unless it should clearly appear that there is no evidence whatever of wrong-doing on their part.

At the previous examination 262 applicants wrote for licenses. Twenty per cent of this number failed. The examination continued at the state house all day, with a practical demonstration on cadavers at the Medical College of Indiana, in the afternoon.

DAY IN NEW YORK

HOW METROPOLIS CELEBRATED THE FOURTH.

OCCASION UNUSUALLY QUIET

TAMMANY HELD ITS CUSTOMARY EXERCISES.

BRYAN SENDS A SENTIMENT

MINISTER WU SPEAKS AT PHILADELPHIA.

New York, July 4.—The observance of Independence day in this city was more than usually quiet this year. There were flag raising ceremonies at sunrise at the Battery and at the Block house in Central park, but they were attended by very few people. Nearly every one who could do so, left the city yesterday on account of the intense heat, and today the streets were almost deserted.

Tammany hall held its regular Independence day celebration, at which the Declaration of Independence was read and speeches were made by Governor Jennings, of Florida, and other leaders of the democratic party. The following letter of regret from W. J. Bryan, dated Washington, June 29, was read:

LETTER FROM MR. BRYAN.

"I congratulate Tammany upon the fidelity it has shown in celebrating each returning anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. I trust that at this time, when the republican leaders are denying the universal application of the self-evident truths set forth in that declaration, special emphasis will be given to the assertion that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. In response to your request for a sentiment appropriate for the occasion, I beg to suggest the following: Liberty is not safe without a constitution, and a constitution to be of value must be strong enough to control every public servant and broad enough to include within its protection every person who acknowledges allegiance to the flag."

WU AT PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, July 4.—Several thousand persons gathered in Independence square today to see and hear Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister. Minister Wu was orator of the day at the municipal celebration of Independence day and the friendly reception given the distinguished guest must have allayed all fears for his safety, based on the fact that he had received an anonymous letter threatening him with bodily harm. After prayer by Bishop Whitaker, Minister Wu was introduced by Chairman Hammond. When the Chinese diplomat stepped to the front of the platform he was given a rousing reception and it was some time before quiet could be sufficiently restored to permit the distinguished speaker to be heard.

As he proceeded with his speech he was listened to with marked attention and every patriotic utterance was loudly cheered.

Minister Wu began with an expression of his gratification of the honor shown him and regret over the circumstances which prevented his acceptance of a similar invitation a year ago. Referring to the day he sketched the many important events which had occurred upon its anniversaries. He made humorous reference to the fact that China furnished America with fire crackers and then in serious vein traced a similarity in the educational system of China, which gave the humblest citizen an opportunity to become part of the government and the electoral system of the United States. He defined the canons of Confucius and Mencius as the Magna Charta of China and quoted the words of Mencius: "The people are the most important element in a nation, the spirits of the land and grain are the next, the sovereign is the lightest." His closing tribute to the United States was as follows:

"This nation, it seems to me, has not sprung into existence without a manifest destiny. There must be some noble ends for which the independence of the United States was established. It was to demonstrate to the world what great good to mankind a free and independent people can do ;to establish 'a government of the people, by the people and for the people;' to preserve law and order; to treat all people alike with fairness and justness; to do away with selfish and clannish feelings; to make American patriotism synonymous with fair play, with the love of mankind, with freedom and liberty in accordance with law and justice. By pursuing these ends this republic will become the greatest power upon earth, and you citizens of this great country will be more than ever respected and loved by all."

FELL DOWN STAIRS.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Winters, 39 Lincoln avenue, was the scene of much excitement at an early hour today. A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Winters this morning, and the nurse, Mrs. Irwin, who had been in attendance on Mrs. Winters for some time, met with an accident in which she narrowly escaped setting fire to the house. While decending the cellar steps with a lamp in her hand, she missed her footing and fell to the bottom, striking her head on a corner of the steps and bruising herself severely. The lamp set fire to some trash in the cellar and a serious blaze was prevented by the heroic work of Mr. Winters.

BELIEVE BLOODSHED IS OVER

COLORADO MINERS' TROUBLE IS SUBSIDING.

Three Dead and Ten Wounded the Result of a Bloody Battle at Telluride.

Telluride, Col., July 4.—No further bloodshed is feared at the Smuggler-Union mine, where three men were killed and about ten wounded in a battle between strikers and non-union miners yesterday.

Officials of the company have agreed to withdraw all men from the mine except a few watchmen and to make no effort to resume work until the strike is amicably settled or officially declared off. There seems no probability of further hostilities.

There men were killed and at least ten wounded in the fight yesterday between 150 armed strikers and the force of miners and deputies at the mines.

The dead:

John Barthell, a miner, one of the attacking party.

George Nicholson, shift boss at the mine.

J. Lujan, a Mexican, employed as trammer in the mine.

Non-union men numbering about 100 were driven over the range into Ouray county and warned never to return.

The strike, which culminated in the outbreak yesterday, was ordered by the miners' union on May 1 last. It followed the refusal of the mine management to guarantee all miners employed minimum wages of $3 a day. The company resumed operations June 17 with a non-union force.

In furtherance of the general desire for an amicable and peaceful settlement of the points at issue between the union and the company, a business men's meeting was held at Telluride today, at which the positive assurance is said to have been given that the union should not take action without consultation with the business men, who had consented to serve as a committee of medintion, and they were only awaiting the return of Manager Collins to take action when the outbreak occurred.

Officials of the miners' union declare the march on the mines yesterday was entirely without the sanction of the organization.

KINDER HAS GHASTLY RELIC

MEMENTO OF AN ALLEN COUNTY HANGING.

Rope on Which Madden and Keefer Were Swung Into Eternity Thirty-Five Years Ago.

Randolph Kinder, who resides near Harlansburg, was in the city today, says the Huntington News-Democrat, and had in his possession a relic which he prizes very highly, although to some it is a ghastly object. The relic is the noose end of a hangman's rope that was used in executing two murderers named Madden and Keefer, who were hung by the sheriff of Allen county thirty-five years ago. The two men murdered another man in a lumber pile, securing five dollars.

Dr. Swazee was one of the judges who pronounced the murderers dead after they were hung and he secured the noose, which still shows signs of the condemned men's blood. After the death of Dr. Swazee his widow married Mr. Kinder and that is how he came into possession of the rope.

FORT WAYNE HONORED THE DAY

Picnics, Parks and Summer Resorts Drew the Crowds---Young America Gives a Noisy Testimonial of His Patriotism.

The 125th anniversary of the birth of American freedom was heralded Wednesday evening by the discharge of cannon crackers, blunderbusses, firearms of all descriptions and torpedoes. In spite of the mayor's proclamation that there should be no noisy demonstrations until 4 o'clock patriots remained up all night and the actual business of ushering the day was continued from midnight, through the early morning hours, to the present writing without perceptible diminution.

The small boy, of course, was the important factor in all this celebration and as it is the one day of the years in which his noisy proclivities are allowed to expand, run over and burst out in spots, he made himself ubiquitous. His one chief delight was to place giant torpedoes on the street car tracks and watch the effect on timid passengers as one end of the car threatened to go into the air under the force of the explosions. The boys, as a rule, were undisturbed in their exploits, although the police thought it prudent to deprive a number of them of their revolvers, horse-pistols and other warlike weapons, until almost a wheelbarrow load of them were stored at the police station. The weapons were in all cases carefully marked and the boys were told that they could have them by calling for them tomorrow.

There was nothing in the nature of a general celebration arranged for anywhere in the city, although a large number of church and society picnics are in progress in the various

SYSTEM REACHES 'ROUND THE WORLD

San Francisco, July 4.—A special to the Chronicle from Tacoma says:

It is definitely announced by interests closely connected with the Northern Pacific railway that J. P. Morgan & Co. has purchased of George B. Dodwell, Frederick Dodwell and Hugh C. Wallace the Northern Pacific Steamship company and the Washington and Alaska Steamship company. The sale of the lines was effected in New York in May by George B. Dodwell and Hugh C. Wallace, who have recently returned. Men connected with the Northern Pacific confirmed the sale but will not permit the use of their names.

It was originally arranged that the announcement should be made only by J. P. Morgan after his return from Europe. The purchase of these lines gives Morgan & Co. a complete transportation system around the world, with headquarters in New York. It comprises the Leyland line from New York to London, the Glen line and Northern Pacific steamship line from London to Tacoma, and the Northern Pacific, Burlington and Erie railroads from Tacoma to New York.

Board to Secure High School Site by Condemnation Proceedings---Failure to Agree on Terms Will Delay Work.

Failing in the attempt to purchase upon what were considered favorable conditions the property of Miss Margaret Hamilton, at Barr and Lewis streets, as a site for the new Fort Wayne high school building, the school board at its meeting Wednesday evening determined to resort to legal measures to secure the property. Barrett & Morris, attorneys for the school board, were directed to institute condemnation proceedings to secure possession of the property.

The selection of the site was made by the board several months ago, but conditions governing the transfer of the property arose which have greatly delayed the work of the board. It was desired that a tract 160 feet in width off the eastern portion of the Hamilton square, and extending from Lewis street to Montgomery, be purchased, and the board also wanted an option upon ten additional feet at the west side of this plat.

THE TERMS OFFERED.

Miss Hamilton offered the 150-foot tract for $25,000, stipulating that $5,000 be paid in cash and $20,000 on or before the 10th of October next. No restrictions were to be placed on this, but in the additional ten feet arose the difference between Miss Hamilton and the board. Miss Hamilton stipulated that the ten-foot strip should be used only for park and ornamental purposes, or for the use of a bicycle path or passageway; that no building should be placed thereon during her life; that no further rights should be exercised over the strip during her life, unless by the payment to her of $10,000 as damages. Finally, she stipulated that the additional forty feet included in the option should not, during her life, be condemned or otherwise appropriated, except by the payment to her of $20,000 in excess of its value as damages.

These conditions the board could not accept and repeated attempts have been made to agree upon a satisfactory basis of purchase. Judge Alden, attorney for Miss Hamilton, submitted a last proposition at the meeting Wednesday evening, but it was no more acceptable than the previous one, and the board's determination to institute the condemnation proceedings resulted.

WILL DELAY THE WORK.

This new phase of the situation means that the building of the new high school and manual training school will be considerably delayed, and it is likely that work cannot begin before next spring. The circuit court has adjourned and action cannot be brought until the September term, and the formalities of the proceedure are likely to require considerable time.

The architect's plans for the building are well under way and the board had hoped to have the foundations of the building completed before cold weather. The board has abandoned consideration of the site offered by Hon. Montgomery Hamilton, as it is considered too small for the purpose.

A CASE OF IT.

MANY MORE LIKE IT IN FORT WAYNE.

The following case is but one of many similar occuring daily in Fort Wayne. It is an easy matter to verify its correctness. Surely you cannot ask for better proof than such conclusive evidence.

Mrs. Adolph Felt, of No. 12 Caroline street, says: "Before I took Doan's Kidney Pills, sold at Meyer Bros. & Co.'s drug store, I was afflicted with kidney trouble so that I could hardly attend to my household work, and when I did a little more than usual my back ached so I could hardly stand it. Once a week I was sure to be used up with sick headache and sometimes oftener. I tried other remedies before I did Doan's Kidney Pills, but the kidney trouble stuck right to me. Shortly after I commenced the treatment the backache and headaches disappeared and I have had no return of them since."

WILL APPEAL TO PYTHIANS

TO SAVE INSURANCE BRANCH OF THE ORDER.

Supreme Lodge to Take Matter in Charge—Death Claims Last Year $8,000 Above Receipts.

Chicago, July 4.—One million dollars will be needed to place the insurance rank of the Knights of Pythias in as good shape as it was two years ago, and it is probable an appeal will be made to members of the order to come to the rescue and save the insurance branch.

The supreme lodge of the order will meet in Chicago next week under a special call to consider solely the future of the endowment rank.

PLAN TO RAISE PAYMENTS.

Besides providing for funds it will consider a plan to raise the payments which members make by 28 per cent. so as to conform to requirements recently made by the laws of seven states. Beyond this it will have an even greater matter to consider—the charges of criminal negligence and misconduct which have been made against the former officers of the order.

Former officers will be charged with investing $300,000 where it is tied up and useless to the order, if not a total loss, and with depositing funds in unsound banks. Their books are said to be in such bad shape that it is impossible even to tell how much money was put into some of the investments.

The endowment rank is a huge fraternal insurance society in itself, with almost 70,000 members and with almost $120,000,000 of insurance outstanding. For twelve years until last January John A. Hinsey, special agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, was the president of its board of control. During the latter part of his term of office $100,000 was invested in Texas coal lands a few miles from the town of Bowie and $191,500 was put in bonds of the Lexington Hotel.

INVESTMENTS ARE POOR.

Now the coal lands are said to be utterly worthless, unless by some accident of fate somebody some time finds oil on them, while the Lexington hotel property will need, it is said, an investment of several hundred thousand dollars more to make it possible to realize on the property.

This is only one of the troubles of the order. Outstanding against it are $375,000 of death claims unpaid, which must be provided for.

Last year the death claims amounted to $80,000 more than the assessments brought in. This the order could have stood with ease if the investments of its surplus funds had been in good shape.

John A. Hinsey denies the stories of mismanagement when he was president and says that the investments were good ones when he made them. Concerning the alleged bribery of an Illinois insurance commissioner, he said: "I never paid that man a cent. The books were examined by state inspectors in 1897. My whole correspondence with him consisted of two formal letters, which are on file."

Fred H. Rowe, attorney for the Illinois insurance department, was asked regarding the reports from Indianapolis that criminal proceedings would be instituted against the officers responsible for the mismanagement of the funds of the endowment rank, but would not commit himself.

CASE IS CONTINUED.

Chicago, July 4.—When C. G. Morgenthaler was arraigned before Justice Mahoney, in the Sheffield avenue police court, yesterday, the case was continued until July 10. The police have five charges of passing worthless checks against the man.

the police in the preservation of order. Fleet launches will be procured, he said, which will facilitate communication among the provinces, as well as aid the postal and revenue departments. In connection with educational efforts, Governor Taft said that adults should be educated by an observation of American methods. He said that there was a reasonable hope that congress would provide for a tariff, suitable to assist in the development of the Philippines, and not a mere application of the United States tariff.

According to Governor Taft there is an unexpended balance in the insular treasury of $3,700,000, and an annual income of $10,000,000.

The governor said that any possible friction between civil and military subordinates should be discouraged. The patriotism of the leading Filipinos was commended. In conclusion, Civil Governor Taft reiterated a hope expressed by the president that in the future the inhabitants would be grateful for the American Philippine victories, and that they would be indissolubly linked in ties of affection with the common country.

JUDGE BAKER MAY NOT GET IT

PRECEDENCE OF THE SENATE IN WAY OF PROMOTION.

Age Limit is Against His Appointment to the Judgeship—It is an Old Rule.

(Indianapolis Journal.)

In all the discussion recently regarding the appointment to fill the vacancy on the United States circuit bench caused by the death of Judge Woods it has been conceded that Judge Baker would be promoted and that Senators Beveridge and Fairbanks would have to select some one to take the chair now held by Judge Baker, but now there comes from Washington information that throws doubt on Judge Baker's promotion.

This information is that when Senator Edmunds was chairman of the judiciary committee of the senate, which receives the recommendations for the appointment of federal judges, he and his associates established a rule that no man should be confirmed to the circuit bench who was over sixty years of age. It is required that a man must serve ten years on either the circuit or district benches and must have reached the age of seventy years before he can retire on salary.

The dispatch also points out that Judge Baker's service on the district bench would not count in his retirement from the circuit bench, even if the senate should waive its time-honored traditions, and he would be eighty years old before he could retire from that bench. It is further said that Judge Baker is sixty-nine years old and in a year or a little more he will have served ten years on the district bench. Unless the senate should waive its rule in this particular case he could not be appointed to the circuit bench. It is appreciated that at sixty-nine Judge Baker is in full possession of his powers, but it is presumed this fact would not affect the general rule of the senate.

Senator Hoar is now chairman of the judiciary committee and his conservatism and respect for the traditions of the senate are well known to the public at large. It is also well known here that Judge Baker would not press his own suit for promotion and he has said in an interview that he would not take part in the contest for the appointment to the circuit bench. Under the foregoing conditions it is thought in Washington that the president may be called upon to make only one appointment, a successor to Judge Woods on the circuit bench.

CELEBRATED IN CHINA.

Pekin, July 4.—The Fourth was celebrated here today by the United States legation guard with athletic games and fireworks. The German minister, Dr. Mumm Von Schwanzenstein, gave a dinner at the German legation to the officers of the American guard. Messrs. TOWN SWEPT AWAY.

Nome, Alaska, via Seattle, Wash., July 4.—Reports from Council City are to the effect that a rise in Fish river June 15 swept away the entire town of White Mountain, with the exception of one saloon. The rise was caused by the breaking of an ice jam. A native village at the mouth of the Neukluk was also flooded. Golovin bay is still solidly frozen over.

AMERICANS WIN ONCE MORE

PENNSYLVANIA BOYS DEFEAT THAMES CREW.

Oarsmen in English Waters Will Meet Leanders in Final Trial Tomorrow.

Henley, July 4.—The second day of the Henley regetta was signalized by another victory for the Americans, the oarsmen of the University of Pennsylvania defeating the Thames Rowing club and thus winning their second heat. As the Leanders defeated the Belgian crew, the Pennsylvanians will meet the Leanders in the final heat for the Grand Challenge cup tomorrow.

CONDITIONS EXCELLENT.

The conditions were even better than yesterday. A bright, hot sun was shining and there was no wind. There was a decided increase in the attendance and American flags were very liberally displayed.

Soon after 11 o'clock the Leangers, paddling to the start for their race, were loudly applauded along the course, but their reception was quite eclipsed by that given to the Americans, as a few minutes later they followed. The contrast in the style of the two crews, whom everybody expected to see fight it out in the final heat, was more marked than ever. The Americans seemed even more confident than yesterday.

There was a capital start and the Pennsylvanians had three-fourths of a length lead before the top of the island was reached. They rowed eleven strokes in the first quarter, twenty-two in the first half, and forty-one during the first minute. The Americans went away steadily and easily from that point and dropped their stroke to thirty-eight. They did half the distance in 3:30. Their opponents did the half in 3:42 Opposite the Leander enclosure the Pennsylvanians were three lengths ahead, and, although they again eased considerably and the others spurted, the Thames men were never able to make up anything.

Passing the grand stand the Americans could not resist a little spurt and they rowed with a dozen strokes at the rate of forty-one to the minute.

The Americans had a very friendly reception, and a number of their countrymen succeeded in giving them a very respectable college yell. The band played "The Belle of New York."

Ellis Ward, the American coach, who was in the umpire's launch, expressed himself as being thoroughly satisfied and confident. He said:

"I told them they must not make that spurt at the end, but I suppose they were so excited and pleased that they could not resist it."

Ellis Ward and Graduate Manager Hart are both delighted with the easy race, which Ward said was only paddling. "But," he added, "it gets us up against Leander, and now we will do the best we can to make tomorrow another Fourth of July."

FORT WAYNE HONORED THE DAY.

parks and groves in and around the city. In consequence many Fort Wayne people have left the city for the day, Rome City attracting the largest crowd, although a large number are at Winona, where C. W. Fairbanks will set off an assortment of vocal pyrotechnics this afternoon. Robison park is commanding the best patronage of any of the local entertainments and the attractions there are more diversified. Besides the usual theatrical entertainments and the general outing facilities afforded at this popular resort, band concerts will be on all day and this evening there will be an illumination and there will also be some fireworks.

The Concordia and the St. Paul's Lutheran congregations have consolidated for the day and are picnicking at the college grounds, where a band of music has been engaged to furnish entertainment for the little folks. St. Peter's church, with a band, is picnicking at the grove adjacent to the church on Warsaw street and Zion's Lutheran church is close by with another picnic. St. Mary's Catholic church is celebrating at Lakeside park, with Casso's orchestra as the musical feature, and the Church of the Precious Blood is holding a picnic on the north side near the church. Emmaus Lutheran church and Sunday school are spending the day at Zollars' grove, formerly known as high banks. St. John's, as has been the custom for a number of years, is entertaining its little ones at Swinney park.

At Centlivre park the Amateur Driving club has arranged for a splendid program, and the City band has been engaged to give a concert before and after as well as during the races. For the afternoon this popular resort will probably hold the call and will attract the largest crowd of the older people. The accidents so far reported have been remarkably few in number and none are of serious character.

ARCADE DENTAL PARLORS.

In order to discourage any fear on the part of the reader lest he or she might class us with those who advertise to give away fillings, crowns, plates, etc., we wish it understood in the following few words that we pursue no such methods.

We make but one claim and that is that we conduct a high-class Dental parlor, where only the best work is done and at prices within reach of all.

Reliable Dentistry.

The above means just what it says. It is a name we are proud of. Seven years we have given our best efforts toward establishing what is now the largest dental practice in the city. Our chief aim has been to give the public the best dental service at prices about one-half the charges of private practitioners. We have succeeded beyond expectation, but only by giving the best in material and workmanship.

The limit of false economy is reached by all who are attracted by low prices for cheap dentistry, which is expensive at any cost.

HONOR TO FORT WAYNE LADY

STATE SOCIETY PRESENTS RING TO MISS RICE.

Annual Meeting of Indiana Sons of Veterans and Ladies' Aid Society at Muncie.

Muncie, Ind., July 4.—The annual encampment of the Sons of Veterans of Indiana, and their auxiliary, the Ladies' Aid society, came to a close today, the visitors participating in a monster Fourth of July parade at the close of their session.

A pretty feature of the closing ceremonies was the presentation of a beautiful ring, with settings of emeralds and pearls, by the members of the Ladies' Aid society to Miss Nettie Rice, of Fort Wayne, the retiring president.

SONS OF VETERANS.

The election of state officers for the Sons of Veterans resulted as follows:

Commander—George W. Kristenstein, of Terre Haute.

Senior Vice Commander—J. Harve Leffler, of Muncie.

Junior Vice Commander—McClure Tate, of Noblesville.

Quartermaster—E. E. Friedline, of Jonesboro.

Division Council—Oral Jones, Shelbyville; E. E. Wooden, Greensburg.

L. A. S. OFFICERS.

The morning session of the Ladies' Aid society was the most interesting yet held during the encampment. Business proceedings of the morning session were presided over by President Miss Rice, of Fort Wayne, who announced the following election of officers: Mrs. Maggie Goodrich, ppresident, Shelbyville; Mrs. Sophia Price, vice president, Muncie; Mrs. Bertha Spurlin, secretary, Shelbyville; Mrs. Maggie McKenney, treasurer, Shelbyville; Mrs. Lulu Helms, chaplain, Elwood; Mrs. Sarah Vawters, division inspector; Mrs. Minnie Kristenstein, mustering and installation officer, Terre Haute; council, Miss Nettie Rice, Fort Wayne; Miss Miss Mattie Ott, Richmond, and Miss Dyke Beals, Fort Wayne; W. W. Haggans, judge advocate, Shelbyville.

STRIKE SITUATION QUIET.

Pittsburg, July 4.—Quiet prevailed in amalgamated circles today. There was nothing new in the strike situation, and this being the Fourth, the headquarters of the association were deserted. In speaking of a general tie-up of the United States Steel corporation plants unless the companies involved in the present dispute make terms, President Shaffer said that while he would not hesitate to take such a course if it became necessary to do so to win, he did not believe there would be a general strike. "I have hopes," said he, "that the troubles will be settled to the satisfaction of all concerned."

"It is up to the employers now," continues he. "Our scale expires June 30, and they refused to sign the new scale. Our men cannot and will not work until it is signed. Should the employers wish to meet us again to talk over the scale we will meet them, and I am satisfied that something will be done within the next two weeks."

Miss Isabel McClure has gone to Buffalo to visit the exposition.

A STIMULANT.

And a Sorry Friend to Some Systems.

"Coffee acts as a stimulant to me. I can for a time accomplish considerable more work, but then I am dull, spiritless, nervous, weak and irritable. Coffee acts like a slow poison on my father, giving him inward pains and a feeling of being generally upset. Continued use always used to make him ill.

"He used to be very fond of the beverage and was in the habit of drinking it two mornings, say, then skipping a few days, and taking it two mornings again. If he took it the third morning he was invariably sick. It is two years now since we had the first package of Postum. We have been using it ever since, to our very great benefit.

"A lady friend who is the wife of a prominent clergyman in New Haven (whose name I am not at liberty to give), was a complete nervous wreck from the use of coffee. About a year ago she began the use of Postum and continued in it. Six weeks after starting she had lost all her former nervousness, had grown plump in the face, and her health better than it had been for years. She is a splendid walking advertisement, and is most enthusiastic in the praise of Postum, telling all of her callers of its merits and urging them to try it." Kate Austen, Hamden, Conn.

MANY CELEBRITIES COMING.

Winona Lake, Ind., July 4.—The list of international Bible student celebrities that will attend the national Bible conference at Winona in August was announced today. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, of New York, who was Moody's associate for many years, will preside. The Rev. Dr. John McNeil, of Scotland, whom Moody declared to be "the greatest preacher in the world," will be on the program. He will be accompanied by the Rev. J. W. VanDeventer, another one of Great Britain's most noted evangelists. The Rev. Andrew Murray, of Africa, and the Rev. A. A. Fulton, of China, will also be on the program. Among the fifty or more noted American Bible students to be heard during the two weeks are the Rev. J. M. Buckley, editor of the Christian Advocate, New York; the Rev. W. G. Moorehead, president of Xenia Theological Seminary; the Rev. Cornelius Woelfkin, the noted Baptist preacher of Brooklyn; Bishop J. W. Hott, the Rev. George L. Robinson, president of McCormick Theological Seminary; S. H. Hadley, of the McAuley missions, New York; the Rev. Alexander Patterson, of Chicago; the Rev. W. L. Munhall, of Philadelphia; Todd B. Hall, the celebrated Baltimore detective-evangelist; W. A. ("Billy") Sunday, the ex-professional ball player, and the Rev. R. A. Walton. It is now thought that the attendance this year will not fall short of 5,000. At the first national Bible conference seven years ago, but seventy-five were present.

ATTACKED BY A SNAKE.

Martinsville, Ind., July 4.—While Miss Isis Meyer was driving to her home near this city, her buggy ran over a snake lying in the roadway, and the reptile coiled itself about the wheel and endeavored to crawl into the buggy. Miss Meyer fought it with the butt of her whip and called for help, and some men in a field nearby ran to her assistance and the snake was killed. It measured over six feet in length, and was of a reddish brown color, of a species not common in this county.

The weather bureau, it must be conceded, has been making a series of very warm forecasts recently.

About every horse that assumes to cut any figure in equine society in Fort Wayne today is wearing a straw hat.

Republican sentiment in Ohio gives a gasp at the lurking thought of the electrical storm that would occur if Mr. Foraker and Mr. Hanna should each discover a presidential bee in his bonnet at the same time.

This is the glorious time of the year when the patriotic boy and the toy cannon and cap pistol get in their joint work of destruction. The toy cannon and the cap pistol always come out ahead because they never get reckless. The patriotic boy is different.

Judge Allen Zollars, of this city, and the late Judge William A. Woods served together upon the bench of the Indiana supreme court. Of the supreme bench as constituted at that time but two members are now living—Judge Zollars and Judge Byron K. Elliott, of Indianapolis.

Tests made in Boston prove that wood pavements radiate more heat than any other kind. The time of the experiments was the early afternoon, with the thermometer at 96 in the shade. The average temperature was 124½ for the wood pavement, 115 for granite blocks, 113 for asphalt, and 102½ for macadam.

Good wages mean almost everything. Lord Roberts declared that it is this fact which makes the United States army remain the finest of its size in the world. Of course, we are under the impression that there is something more than the monthly pay in the superiority of our troops, but we are willing to accept the compliment of the distinguished English soldier. One thing about our army that generally escapes attention is the fact that it contains thousands of men who never saved a penny in their lives until after they enlisted. Uncle Sam is a good man to serve and he helps his men all he can to acquire good habits and to follow good methods in the care of the money which he pays them.

The powers are able to do a good many things in China, but they are not able to control the empress dowager. That remarkable old lady suspects that her invitation to return to Pekin is a trap for her arrest and punishment—which she thoroughly deserves—so she has issued a decree constituting a new capital, where she proposes to transact business as of old.

With a trade of a billion and a half per annum the United States stands today at the head of the commercial nations, and is altogether likely to maintain that position unless a European coalition should come to punish us for our foolish and selfish policy. But possibly our statesmen and voters may gain a little sense in the course of time and undo the mischief of Dingleyism. Then, indeed, would America rule the world of trade.

THE AMERICAN INVASION.

London writers of pronounced humor are still having their sport over the American invasion of Great Britain, says the New York World. One of them recommends these questions, among others, for would-be students at the Scotch universities favored by Mr. Carnegie:

Geography—Draw a map of the United States, marking London, Glasgow and Birmingham.

Travel—You are an American millionaire traveling for recreation. Which would you take back with you as souvenirs, London or Paris? State your reasons for preferring one of these trinkets.

History—Write a note on the invasions of Great Britain and the rebellion and subsequent subjugation of the Angles. Gives dates of accessions of Yerkes I., Sloan, Morgan, the Contractor, and other conquerors; also of the beatification of St. Carnegie. Say who you know of any of these.

This is funny, beyond even a Yankee doubt. Does it intensify the humor of the situation to read in another section of the cable news the serious program for an unusually elaborate celebration in London of the Fourth of July.

CIVIL RULE IN PHILIPPINES.

Today marks the inauguration in the Philippine archipelago of what by grace is called civil rule. In reality it is a continuation of military rule, under which some particular civic privileges in local matters is vouchsafed the Filipinos. Judge Taft, who is now civil governor general of the Philippines, is an officer of the war department and under the direction of the secretary of war. There is and there can be no government in the Philippines save military rule or some modification of it, because congress has not legislated for those possessions of the United States, and the only thing like legislation that has been put through is the Spooner amendment to the army bill. However, as the supreme court is almost certain to render its decision that will fix the constitutional status of the Philippines as has been done in the case of Porto Rico legislation that will establish real civil rule in the Philippines is assured nex winter.

Meanwhile, the fact that some measure of local self government has been given the Filipinos does not mean that all trouble over there is ended. Congressman Hull, of Iowa, who is now there, regards the provincial governments already established as of a "hot house" variety, which is to say they are insecure and not likely to stand the chill blasts of experience. The Filipinos are poor, much of their country has been desolated by war, they have been squeezed by centuries of Spanish misrule, they contributed much to the support of the insurgent government and Aguinaldo's army, and on top of all this they have never done more in the way of developing their resources than the bare needs of the times have forced them to do. Yet they must be taxed to support their local governments and indirectly taxed to support the military government. Considerable burdens will rest on them for some time. That there will be complaint and in some instances revolt is most probable.

Yet today marks the beginning of what must inevitably be a good thing for the Filipinos. They are apt, have some elements of industry and their resources are bountiful. Under good rule they will prosper and in time become contented. If the Fourth of July, Nineteen Hundred and One, does not become established in their history as Independence Day, it may at least mark the time when was opened to them the door that leads to independence.

A CENTURY AND A QUARTER.

Midnight's discharge of noise throughout the country marked the end of the one hundred and twenty-fifth and the beginning of the one hundred and twenty-sixth year of American independence. As the lives of men go it is a long period. In the history of a great and enduring nation it is but a brief epoch. Yet in this short period the United States has expanded until it comprehends nearly half the continent, it has multiplied its population thy twenty-five, grown to be the wealthiest as well as the most powerful nation on the globe and in this first year of the new century has demonstrated to the world that commercial supremacy is destined to be ours. Such achievements have never marked the history of any nation in time so brief.

One hundred years hence, if the world's civilized society shall have undergone no cataclysmic changes and the United States remains anchored to the rock of its foundation the greatness and power of this nation will completely overshadow any and all the nations of the old world. We lead in progress, in energy and in the boldness with which we grapple problems born of the world's ceaseless change. In another century this will be a nation wherein education is universal, special and aggressive. We can support a population of hundreds of millions. Our resources are limitless and more diverse than any other nation possesses. Splendor of such destiny as seems ours has never shone upon the pathway of any other nation. We need fear no dangers from without. Whatever shall menace our national integrity and security, whatever shall threaten the power and perpetuity of our givernment will do so from within.

Safety lies in a better citizenship that more deeply concerns itself with civic honesty than may be imputed to us today. The lust of power, the ravening for spoils, the prostitution of public place high and low to selfish advantage and the gain that cupidity seeks, the huckstering of public privileges to the avaricious and corrupt, the low value placed upon the honor of the seats of power and the apathy of a citizenship that tamely submits to these notorious and multiplying abuses each and altogether threaten the stability of our national foundation. But the situation is by no means gloomy. There is latent in our citizenship a sense of personal rights and public honor that will some day be provoked to righteous anger that will drive the scheming corrupt from their ill-gotten seats of power and purify the temples so defiled. The Fourth of July is a good time to think upon these things because it is the anniversary of a day when it was believed a new and better birthright of citizenship than the world had ever known had been vouchsafed to men for all time. We should make that meaning good.

SOME NEW FIREWORKS

This year's Fourth of July introduces many novelties in fire-works and fire-crackers. There is nothing of the ordinary fire-cracker about them, for noise is the least of their claims to fame being. They sing and whistle and shoot stars and stripes, too, for that matter.

The whistling rockets are old, but the rockets that will whistle a tune, and a patriotic tune at that, are the newest thing of the season. They are very large, and the balls do the whistling as they are thrown into the air. The first ball takes the first measure of the air and the second ball carries the tune a bit farther, and so it goes on. When these balls have reached a certain height they explode and the usual shower of stars of many colors falls before the delighted spectators.

To go with the whistling rockets there are big pinwheels, which have a little battle all with themselves as they go round and round. With the first turn of the wheel there is to be heard the beating of the drum, then comes the bugle call, then the faint cracking of the outposts. Gradually, as the wheel whirls faster and faster, the battle noise grows louder and louder until the thick of the fight is on. These wheels are known as the San Juans and will probably be the most popular of this year's fireworks.

Another pinwheel, which will be used as a mate to the San Juan wheel, is one which gives the return of the troops. Again flags fly, drums beat and the tramp, tramp of the troops can be heard. Each spoke of the pinwheel has its part to do and does it with a hiss and a rattle.

Among the little traps for small children there are the houses that Jack built, with a hole in the chimney for the cracker, and the gunboat which is destroyed by a fire-cracker placed in the funnel. There is also a locomotive, which is set to running by the explosion of a fire-cracker.

In torpedoes there are all sizes, and the boy who has outgrown the tiny old-fashioned ones of paper and gravel may have them in sizes as large as his fist. The large torpedoes make as much noise as a small cannon and are calculated to cause many surprises. Something like these in their plan of explosion are the balls or marbles which are coated with detonating powder. The advantage the owner of this ball has over the owner of the torpedo is that he may shoot the same ball for an entire day and still there will be noise left in it. The only thing necessary is that the ball comes in contact with the sidewalk or the side of a building with sufficient force to cause an explosion.

On the other hand, the detonating powder with which the ball is coated is a powerful explosive and consequently dangerous to handle. Canes made in the same fashion as the balls are on sale this year, and if carelessly handled will prove more dangerous than amusing weapons. While it is great fun to make the Fourth a day of noise it is not necessary to risk one's life in so doing, and anything which will prove dangerous to you, and more particularly to other people, would better be left alone.

One of these same dangerous noisemakers is a fire-cracker of giant size, which upon exploding throws out three stars in as many directions. There is nothing particularly dangerous about stars if kept at a safe distance, but when the fire-cracker is carelessly thrown there is no way of telling in what direction the stars will shoot, and they are just as likely to hit the thrower as to hit someone else, and in either case the result would not be pleasant.

The serpent idea is taking a prominent place in the fire-works of this year, and you will find more kinds of snakes on the fire-works counter than you have ever heard of before. There are snakes that run round and round and those that go straight forward with a funny little wriggle of their bodies, and there are still others that run backwards for more than a yard and then jump into the air.

In the animal line there are barking dogs and squealing pigs and mewing cats done up into the shape of a fire-cracker and going off with a pop.

OFFER BIG REWARD IN GOLD

$5,000 FOR THE APPREHENSION OF THE ROBBERS

Who Held Up the Great Northern Flyer Near Wagner, Mont., Wednesday—Booty Large.

St. Paul, Minn., July 4.—Upon receipt of the news of the hold-up of the Great Northern Flyer near Wagner a reward of $5,000 in gold for the apprehension of the robbers was at once posted by the Great Northern officials. All the facts in the case were at once communicated to David Allman, chief of the Great Northern secret service. The large amount of the reward is taken as evidence that the booty was heavy, but the exact amount taken has not been given out.

News of the robbery and the reward was wired to all the principal points on the line and the police and detective forces of all the important points in the northwestern territory were notified.

The train was No. 3, westbound, and was held up about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon 196 miles east of Great Falls, Mont., by three masked men, who blew open the express car with dynamite and secured the entire contents of the through express, estimated at $83,000.

One of the robbers boarded the train a few miles from the scene of the hold-up. When the train reached the place where his confederates were lying in wait in a ravine alongside the track he pulled the bell cord, and as the train slowed down, jumped onto the engine and presenting a rifle, forced the fireman and engineer to abandon their engine.

As the passengers began to look out of the windows a fusilade of shots swept alongside of the coaches and was continued for several minutes. Dynamite was quickly exploded in the express car, tearing the car to pieces. The robbers then mounted good horses and rode away to the Bad Lands. A posse is in pursuit, but capture is improbable. Three passengers who ventured to look out of the windows in the day coach were struck by bullets, but not seriously injured.

PLACE LOSS AT $40,000.

Helena, Mont., July 4.—It is stated here that the three men who held up Great Northern railway train No. 3, westbound, near Malta, Mont., yesterday secured, $40,000 in cash, in addition to securities of considerable value.

The robbers did not attempt to go through the passenger coaches.

Although large posses are scouring the country in all directions no trace of the gang has yet been secured.

Auditor Douglass and Brakeman Blake, who were severely wounded by the volleys fired along the sides of the train, are resting easily at the Great Falls hospital.

KRAUSE'S HEADACHE CAPSULES

Were the first headache capsules put on the market. Their immediate success resulted in a host of imitations, containing antipyrine, chloral, morphine and other injurious drugs, purporting to be "just as good." Avoid these imitations and insist on your having Krause's, which speedily cure the most severe cases and leaves no bad after effects. Price 25c. Sold by Dreier & Bro., corner Calhoun and Columbia streets.

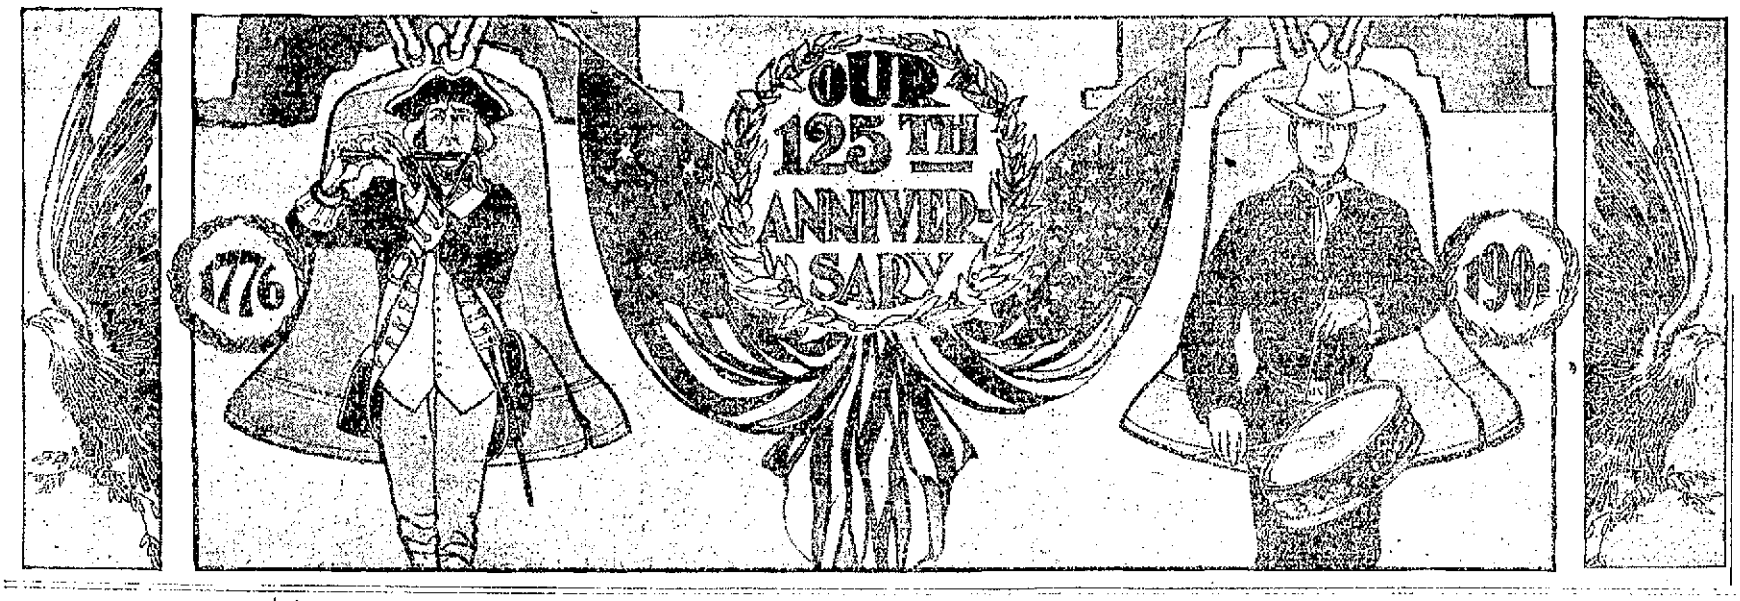
THE GRAND AND GLORIOUS FOURTH OF JULY.



The Fourth at Sebogan Light

BY JOE LINCOLN.

[Copyright, 1901, by Joe Lincoln.]

ING, dong, ding dong!" boomed the bell buoy at the end of the ledge. "Oo-oo-oo-an-oo!" answered the distant fog horn at Ramsey's Point. Down at the foot of the lighthouse the surf hissed, roared and creamed over the seaweed covered rocks. Abner Dawes turned uneasily in his chair and glanced at the clock. It was half past 7 and the morning of the Fourth of July, 1898.

Luther Payne, the old ex-man-of-war's man and head light keeper, sat near by reading the day before yesterday's newspaper. He was eagerly spelling out every word of intelligence from the blockading fleet at Santiago, for he had served under Farragut, and the United States navy was his hobby, his pride and his idol. The breaking out of the war with Spain and Dewey's victory had thrown the old man into a tremendous excitement. But for the past two months Cervera's fleet had claimed all his attention.

When the fleet left Cadiz and started for the West Indies, he expressed the opinion that it was a "dead duck" and even went so far as to send up to S —— and order a liberal assortment of fireworks with which to celebrate its destruction. Every day since it had been penned up in Santiago harbor he had snorted his disgust because the "cowardly Greasers didn't come out and fight."

"Nothin new!" he snorted. "I'm 'fraid our ships'll never git a whack at them Greasers. Plaguy shame, I call it! How's the fog—thick as ever?"

"Yes, yes; thicker, if anything!" answered Abner disgustedly. "Guess my Fourth'll be spent about here."

"Too bad! I know when a feller makes up his mind ter ask a girl he wants ter git it over with as quick as possible. Sorter like havin a tooth out, ain't it?"

Abner paid little heed to this remark, but opened the door and stepped out on the iron gallery of the lighthouse. Sebogan light is built on the ledge of rocks which, submerged at high tide, marks the entrance to the harbor of the city of S——. The city itself is seven miles away. The nearest land to the light is Ramsey's Point, and that lies two miles to the west.

Now, the average young man would deem Ramsey's Point a dreary place in which to spend the Fourth, but Abner, who had been looking forward to the holiday for a week, thought of it as an ideal spot because Sadie Ainsworth lived there.

Sadie was an orphan whose father, a fisherman, had been drowned the year before, leaving her to care for her two little brothers. Abner, who became acquainted with her when he first took the post of assistant keeper at Sebogan, was now deeply in love. He had not spoken to the young lady on the subject as yet, but had made up his mind to go over to the Point on the Fourth of July, "pop the question" and learn his fate.

Luther, whose interest in his subordinate's love affair was second only to his interest in the navy, had willingly given the latter permission to take the day off, but the storm of the day before and the fog of today rendered it unsafe to leave the lighthouse in charge of but one man; so, unless the fog lifted, the trip would have to be postponed.

"Looks 's if 'twould stay thick all day, don't it?" said Mr. Payne, who had followed Abner out on the gallery. Abner granted assent. The two men leaned over the iron rail and peered down into a mist so dense that the tower seemed to be floating in the clouds. Suddenly the head keeper spoke.

"Ab," he asked, "do you hear anybody callin?"

"No. Wait a minute, though! Seems 's if I did."

"I do, and I heard two or three times. Sounds like a woman's voice or a child's."

They both listened, and above the sounds of the sea and the bell they heard a shrill cry.

Luther made a speaking trumpet of his hands and through it sent a thunderous "Hello!"

The distant cry was repeated, this time seemingly by two voices.

"Children, sure!" said Luther. Then he bellowed, "What's the matter?"

"Help us! We're driftin in a dory!" came the reply.

The two men ran down the winding stairs, through the various rooms of the light and came out on the platform below the lower door. They were still 30 feet above the rocks, but an iron ladder led downward, and they descended swiftly.

The cry was heard again, this time much nearer.

"What little wind there is left is blowin right toward us," said Luther. "They'll pass close by, even if they don't run afoul of the ledge. If they git inter this surf, it'll be all day with 'em!"

Abner turned quickly, climbed up to and entered the door of the light and reappeared with a long coil of stout rope. One end of this he tied about his waist and the other he fastened to the lowest rung of the iron ladder.

"If they pass anywhere in sight," he said coolly, "I'm goin off ter 'em. You stand by ter pull me in when I'm ready."

A dim shape moved out of the fog, perched on the crest of a great roller. It swung onward and became a dory, without oars or sail and with two little figures perched in the stern. Abner saw that it would pass the point where he stood and strike an isolated rock just beyond. Without a word he plunged in and, striking out swiftly, seized the gunwale of the dory. He raised himself cautiously, rested with his chest on the gunwale and reached out his hands. The dory rose on a big breaker, descended and upset in a lather of foam. Luther, pulling frantically on the rope, drew his partner ashore. The latter had a small boy's coat gripped in each hand, and the boys themselves were inside of the coats.

When the quartet was safe in the living room of the lighthouse and the sobbing youngsters were getting warm and dry before the kitchen stove, Luther came into the room where his assistant was changing his clothes and said in an awestruck whisper:

"Abner, do you know who them children are?"

"Yes; I knew 'em when I first saw 'em in the dory. They're the Ainsworth boys."

"Yes, sir; that's exactly who they be—brothers of your gal! Blessed if it don't seem like the hand of Providence!"

The story told by the boys was this: They had the night before pleaded with their sister to be allowed to get up at 3 o'clock and go over to the village, where there was to be a bonfire. She had refused permission, and the youngsters had run away, climbing out of their bedroom window. Seeing the dory which belonged to a neighbor on the beach, they thought they would save time by rowing over to the next point and walking to the village from there. They became bewildered in the fog, lost their oars in the rough water beyond the point and had drifted across the bay over to the light.

They said their sister would not be alarmed if they did not return till night, because she would guess that they had run away to go to the fire and would suppose they had staid to dinner at Eddie Willis' uncle's house. Eddie was to have gone with them.

But the hours went by, and the fog showed no signs of lifting. The boys had a fine time for awhile, exploring the lighthouse and watching Abner clean the lantern. But at length they began to grow weary of these amusements and to remember that it was the Fourth and they had no firecrackers. Luther, who had been pondering for some time, said:

"Ab, it seems ter me as if these boys had been sent her, you understand, sorter providential like. Now, I ain't goin ter have their good time spiled, if they can't go ter the fireworks. Why, by gum, the fireworks can come ter them!"

He went into his bedroom and returned dragging a wooden packing chest. From it he took rockets, pinwheels, Roman candles and bombs galore.

"There!" he said, with a sigh. "I cal'lated ter fire these off when our fleet knocked them Spaniards out of water, but I don't see no chance of that happenin, so I'm goin ter put these ter a good use. I'm goin ter fire 'em off this evenin ter amuse these boys."

At 4 o'clock the fog was as thick as ever, but the surf had subsided, and the sea was comparatively smooth. The boys and the two keepers were out on the gallery arranging the last pieces of red fire. Then Luther said suddenly:

"Listen! Either I ain't got over this mornin's business or somebody's hailin us again!"

"Light ahoy!" came a voice over the water.

"Ahoy yerself!"

"Keep a-hollerin. We're tryin ter find yer!"

The four on the gallery "kept a-hollerin," as requested. Then a voice spoke just beneath them, a voice that three of them knew and loved.

"Oh, Abner," it said, "I'm in dreadful trouble! My little brothers are missing, and I'm afraid they have drifted out to sea in a boat. Have you seen or heard anything of them?"

And there below in a sailboat, with Mr. Willis at the tiller, sat Sadie Ainsworth.

The boys took it upon themselves to answer.

"Hello, Sadie!" they screamed. "Here we are! We're all right, and there's goin ter be lotty fireworks!"

Sadie had met Mr. Willis that afternoon, found out from him that her brothers had not gone with Eddie, had traced their footsteps to the sand of the beach until she came to where they had taken the dory and had stumbled the rest. Mr. Willis had offered to take his sailboat and put out in the fog, with the faint hope of rescuing the lost ones, and she had insisted on going with him.

The boys wanted their sister to remain at the light until evening and see the fireworks. Abner certainly did not attempt to dissuade her, and Luther warmly advocated her remaining.

"The fog's liftin a leetle now," he said. "Wait until by and by, and Ab'll take the boat and put you ashore."

So she decided to remain, and Mr. Willis went back alone. Luther lost no time in telling Miss Ainsworth of Abner's heroism in saving her brothers. He also kept discreetly out of the way and insisted that the boys should be with him, thus leaving the young couple alone.

The fog lifted after supper, and it was time for the fireworks. The boys and Luther were out on the gallery. The sea was shining smooth in the starlight, and a puffing tug was coming up the harbor.

Abner, with a face shining with joy till it looked like a full moon, rushed up the stairs and grasped the head keeper's hand in a mighty grip.

"It's all right, old man," he whispered triumphantly. "She says yes. She'll marry me."

"Hooray!" yelled Luther. "Blessed if that ain't pretty nigh as good as bearin that we'd licked the Spaniards!"

The tug had come abreast of the lighthouse. Her skipper leaned out of the pilothouse and hailed the keeper.

"Hyy, Lute!" he shouted. "Heard the news?"

"No. What news?"

"Why, from Santiago! The Spaniards tried ter run out of the harbor yesterday, and our fleet sunk every blessed ship of 'em. We didn't lose a vessel and only one man."

Mr. Payne stood like a statue for a moment. Then he dashed into the lighthouse and returned with a kerosene lamp. Knocking the chimney from the latter, he applied the blazing wick to a spot on the gallery rail. There was a sputter of fire, a crackle, and the lighthouse burst into a halo of glory. Rockets whizzed from the windows, blue lights, red lights and white lights shone everywhere; flowerpots blossomed on the roof, and Roman candles sent their stars upward.

"Great Scott!" shrieked the astounded tugboat captain. "I thought you hadn't heard of it!"

"I hadn't!" Luther was dancing like a madman.

"Then how on earth did you happen ter have all these things ready?"

"Providence! Providence has had command of this light all day long, and don't you forgit it!"

A Fourth of July Veteran

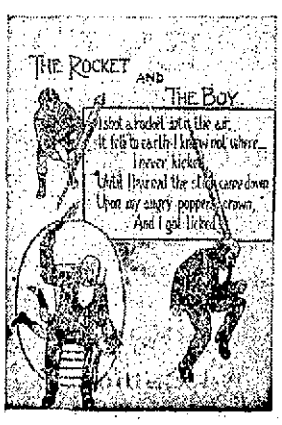
When I uster go barefooted, oh, how happy I would feel
Even if there was stun bruises on each bare an calloused heel,
Even if there was big patches in the seat an in the knee
O' the pants that Brother Billy had outgrown an left to me,
Even if but one suspender kep' 'em where they'd oughter be,
Fer the Fourth was always comin, an away all sorrers shunk
When I had a bunch o' crackers an a yard or two o' punk!

It was joy to touch the pigtails o' the crackers to the light,
Joy to see the pigtails burnin toward the fingers held so tight,
An to hear the crackers crackin was an all day long delight,
While to make a dandy "sisser" that would go off with a "siss,"
Scorchin haff a dozen fingers, was the very greatest bliss.

Never seemed to git one-tenth enough o' "siss" an "bang" an "plunk"
When I had a bunch o' crackers an a yard er two o' punk!

Years an years ago this happened, an the boy that uster play
With the crackers an the "sissers" now is old an beat an gray,
But the Fourth's the same ez ever, for the little children say,
"Come, grandpa, an make a 'sisser,' come an light the punk for us!"
An there ain't no use refusin, for they'd make an awful fuss,
Though the fact is—jest between us—I ain't never dodged or shrunk
When they've got a bunch o' crackers an a yard or two o' punk!

EARLE HOOKER EATON.



THE ROCKET AND THE BOY
I shot a rocket at a star,
It fell to earth I knew not where—

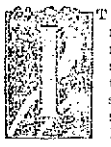
And I got licked.

The First Fourth



T has always seemed funny to me," said the man from Boston, "that signers of the Declaration of Independence should have picked out such a slow place as Philadelphia to thus immortalize. I've always wondered why the Declaration wasn't promulgated in Boston."

"That's right, or, better yet, in New York," said the man from Manhattan. "Philadelphia must have been pretty slow—dead slow—in those old stage-coach days."

"You fellows make me tired," said the man from Philadelphia. "Why, at that time Philadelphia was the swiftest thing in the country. That was why it was selected by the signers and"—

"Swift? Huh! Chicago's the swiftest thing that ever happened. If they had known their business, they would have chosen Chicago," broke in the man from the World's fair city.

"Chicago!" shouted the Bostonian, the New Yorker and the Philadelphian in chorus.

"It was a howling wilderness!"

"It hadn't even happened then!"

"It wasn't on the map even!"

"That's right," sneered the Boston man. "Philadelphia was very swift at that time. It was four days after the Fourth arrived before you people heard about what had happened and got up a celebration four whole days after. Talk about being slow!"

A broad smile of triumph slowly took possession of the Philadelphian's face.

"Oh, I don't know!" he cried. "If Philadelphia was slow, there were others. It is true it took us four days before we woke up and got to celebrating, but swift New York didn't get at it and rip down old George III's statue until five days after the Fourth, and as for Boston—swift, lightning Boston—she didn't even wake up and hear about it and get to celebrating for two whole weeks! Slow? Just cut Philadelphia out after this, will you?" DEN RESITRON.

Mother's Friend.

A Promoter of Health.

Mother's Friend puts comfort and ease in a married woman's back and limbs. She applies it externally—no dosing and swallowing of nasty drugs—no internal treatment at all. This liniment strengthens, lovigorates, toughens and freshens the muscular tissues, gives them elasticity, makes the tendons supple and stimulates the nerves. It is intended solely for expectant mothers. It applied regularly throughout the whole period of pregnancy, morning sickness is escaped. It is soothing, and quiets the nerves.

Labor is quickly and almost painlessly passed. Bright, sweet, healthy babies are born, under the conditions wrought by Mother's Friend, and the mother's strength soon rallies. Women who dread the paramount issue are ignorant of the means that art and science do give toward assisting nature. In all cases where the mother's life is of equal importance to that of the child who is born.

All reliable druggists have Mother's Friend, and the price is $1 per bottle.

Marion had easy picking with "Doggie's" men yesterday and won the game by a score of 5 to 1, with hands down. Fricken, pitching for Fort Wayne, allowed only seven hits and had but two errors behind him, but the boys couldn't hit the ball, and that tells the whole story. Danny Daub did the twirling for Wright's Kickers and he did it handsomely, too, as the box score appended will show. He had seven errors back of him and with all of that staring him in the face he allowed but four hits and won the game right in the box. It would have been a shut out but for an error by Kellner in the first inning, who tossed the ball out into the field, thinking that three were out, when Nattress, who was on third, trotted home. On the next ball pitched the side went out, and that is how close it was to a whitewash. Frank Miller was fined $10 and sent to the bench for getting into an argument with Hornung, the umpire, regarding the fitness of a certain ball to be in the game. It's a tolerably cold day when Hornung don't get a chance to show his authority by fining somebody. Following is the score:

OUR FOURTH IN FAR LANDS

HALF THE GLOBE'S GIRTH BETWEEN CELEBRATIONS.

At the Far North and Below the Equator the Flag Flies and the Day Will be Celebrated.

Strange people, in remote and widely separated places, are today witnessing the celebration of Independence day on the first Fourth of July of the twentieth century. The message which rang out from the old liberty bell above the little brick hall in Philadelphia 125 years ago has traveled swift and far in these last three years.

It will be repeated and indorsed at this anniversary by Americans living on American soil which is eternally bound in the Arctic ice. It will be read to Americans whose home is 900 miles south of the equator. While the rockets and Roman candles are closing the day in Maine the morning sun will be lighting the folds of the stars and stripes in the western confines of the republic. On the shores of the China sea the cannon of our navy will fire the salute to the union and little brown Americans will doubtless hear the roar with terror, fleeing to the woods of Palawan.

Black, brown, red, yellow and white are the skins of the people of the United States. They live as far north as human beings may exist, and they live naked under the equator's fierce suns. Wherever the flag has gone the national holiday will be celebrated in some fashion.

The most remote celebration of the Fourth on American soil is at Palawan. This is the most western station in the Philippine archipelago, at which it is expected at the navy department that a ship can be found today. It is safe to say that the natives of Palawan have no clear idea of the origin or import of the American feast, and the bellowing of the saluting cannon will doubtless be the first notice to the majority of the people of the island that they are due for a little celebrating.

The most northerly celebration is at Point Barrow, Alaska, where Commander Harry Knox has arrived with the Concord. This is seventy-two degrees north latitude and only about 1,000 miles from the pole. The government maintains a signal station there and at rare intervals sends one of its staunchest sea-going tugs to pay its brief visit. The country is snow and ice-bound and it is with difficulty that life can be maintained. On the Fourth of July the sun will be circling a short distance above the horizon, but the crew of the Concord will not be troubled with the heat. The man who hoists the flag will be wrapped to the eyes in heavy furs, and if the cabin boy decides to set off any firecrackers he will have to wear warm mittens. The special dinner served out to the men in honor of the day will consist largely of hot soups and canned vegetables, and will be consumed in the company of red-hot stoves.

While this is taking place there is another celebration—still on American soil—of a very different character. In the island of Tutuila, in the Samoan group, there is a repetition of the celebration held April 17, when the American flag was formally raised there. Tutuila is fifteen degrees south of the equator and is the southernmost American possession. Capt. B. F. Tilly, who is governor, believes in teaching the natives to reverence American customs and institutions. In addition to dressing ship and firing twenty-one guns from the American man-of-war in the harbor of Pago Pago, Captain Tilly will give shore leave to his men and invite the Samoans to join in the games, feasts and general jubilation.

The most eastern celebration will be in the island of Porto Rico. The day dawned there just twelve hours ahead of the day in the island of Luzon. The twentieth parallel of latitude, which passes through Porto Rico, runs just one degree north of the island of Luzon, and the distance between the two points is 180 degrees, or half the circumference of the earth.

In the city of Manila the Fourth has twice before been celebrated. Naval officers who were with Dewey's fleet remember well the first celebration. It came two months after the famous victory at that critical time when the ships of Germany, England and the other European powers were crowding one another in the bay, and when it seemed even to the coolest Americans that a clash with Germany was inevitable. That night the English man-of-war dressed ship with thousands of electric lights, and drawing away from the other vessels took their place close to the American fleet. The other nations had not paid any particular attention to the notice which it is the custom to send to other ships in a harbor informing them that the day is a national holiday; and the special attention of the British was accepted as an assurance that if trouble came they would be with us.

The celebration of Independence day in Manila a year ago was marked by meetings in the local theaters and halls, patriotic speeches in English, Spanish and the Tagal language, band concerts, bunting and other festivities. It is planned this year to train a chorus of native children to sing the "Star Spangled Banner," "The Red, White and Blue," and other national songs. The Declaration of Independence will be read in the schools in different tongues, and on the Luneta the salute to the Union will be fired.

The Princeton is stationed at the island of Cebu today, and its cannon will remind the natives that they are citizens of a free republic. The war department expects to have one of the "timalads" not far from the courts of the sultan of Sulu, and the officers will inform his majesty that the day is a holiday for all Americans.

In the distant and lonesome island of Guam there will be plenty of celebration. Following the example of Captain Leary, his successor, Captain Seaton Schroeder, will issue a few ringing manifestoes. The natives will be told that the day marks the birth of the nation of which they are now a part, and that it is their duty and privilege to set off fire-crackers, shoot pistols, burn pinwheels and have as good a time as possible, all the while remembering why they do it, and being careful not to burn their fingers.

In Cuba there are 6,000 American soldiers who will do a little celebrating, even though the Cubans do not regard the day as an occasion for unmitigated joyousness. The Isle of Pines, south of Cuba, is not conceded to the Cubans, and may be regarded as part of the United States. There is a military reservation there where the day will be appropriately noted.

In the Hawaiian islands the day will be celebrated much as it is in the United States. In addition to the naval stations, there are plenty of former residents of the states who have gone to the islands to live. Also there are plenty of crackers in the Chinese shops, not to mention pinwheels, "nigger chasers," sky rockets and torpedoes.

The lonesomest spot in Uncle Sam's broadening dominns is Wake Island. It sticks up the Pacific about half way between Hawaii and the Philippine archipelago. It has not even the company of other islands. The United States acquired it, and made it a naval station, and here in the middle of the Pacific the union will be saluted and the flag will fly 2,000 miles from the nearest of its starred and striped fellows.

SEEK HIDDEN CASH.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 4.—The wife and six children of Ira Smith, of Youngstown, who was killed by lightning while plowing ten days ago, have been searching night and day since his death for $15,000 in cash, mainly gold, he was known to have hidden on the farm. Smith was eccentric and had no faith in banks. On his person when he was killed he had $1,300. A few days before he had brought home $3,600 in gold and said he would hide it with his other money. He never told members of the family the hiding place, and said that when he should be dying he would let them know where they could find their inheritance. A few years ago his son shot and seriously wounded him. The old man then remarked that it was fortunate he was not killed instantly, as by his death no one would know where to look for the money. All the likely spots about the farm have been examined and in places holes have been dug in the earth. At first the family made the search as secretly as possible, but now their labors are watched by many persons.

IT IS EASY WORK

when you are well, to rub and scrub, but when the back aches and the head throbs, a woman's work is hourly torment.

No woman can be strong and healthy of body who is the victim of those womanly diseases which are often responsible for feminine sufferings.

Women who have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of diseases of the womanly organs, say that work doesn't tire them any more. "Favorite Prescription" regulates the periods, dries enfeebling drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription," neither opium, cocaine nor any other narcotic.

"I had poor health for nine years (ever since the birth of my child)," writes Mrs. Arminnie Watkins, of Acme, Kanawha Co., W. Va. "Had female weakness, was very irregular and would suffer untold misery. Our family doctor did not do me any good and I concluded to write to you. When I wrote I had no idea that I would ever get well, but when your letter reached me I began to have hope. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicines as directed and began to improve in strength. I was soon able to do the work for my family of six. I think there never were such medicines in the world. I took eight bottles, three of 'Favorite Prescription' and five of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and two vials of 'Pellets.'"

STRUCK BY BRIDGE

FIREMAN DAVID BALTZELL INJURED IN CHICAGO.

GENEROUS RAILWAY MEN

THEY AID A FORMER COMRADE'S DISTRESSED FAMILY.

JUNE FREIGHT BUSINESS

TWENTY CAR LOADS SHORT OF THE BEST RECORD.

Henry David Baltzell, a Pittsburg fireman residing at 95 Walnut street, was seriously, though not dangerously, injured in Chicago last night. He was riding on an engine pulling an extra freight train and was struck by the side railing of the elevated bridge crossing Fifty-seventh street. Mr. Baltzell, it is presumed, was standing upon the step leading to the cab, looking beneath the engine, when struck. The blow was not sufficient to knock him from the step and he climbed into the cab and reported the accident to the engineer. He was hurt too badly to continue his run and was removed to a hospital, where he is now resting fairly well. The accident occurred on the Chicago Terminal division of the road and the particulars were not reported here. The injured man will come home in a few days.

CONDUCTOR HAS KNEE HURT.

John P. Herring, a conductor on the Pittsburg road, while en route here with a train from Crestline, last night, had one of his knees badly bruised and wrenched at Bucyrus, Ohio. The injury was most painful, but Mr. Herring did not abandon his run. He thinks he will be all right in a few days.

BURIED THEIR COMRADE.

About sixty members of the Fort Wayne lodge, No. 136, B. of R. T., turned out at the funeral of the late Frederick C. Krudop at 10 o'clock this morning. The funeral was under the auspices of that order and was most solemn and impressive. Rev. Samuel Wagenhals was the officiating clergyman. The pall bearers were selected from the ranks of the brotherhood and the personnel was as follows: John P. McCleary, J. H. Hanley, L. E. Williamson, T. J. Kelker, W. S. Echart and E. J. Girard.

NEW UNLOADING APPARATUS.

A quick unloading machine for use in grading and ballasting railways attracts considerable attention from men interested in that class of work. It is at present standing upon tracks at the Pittsburg round house, but will be taken to Donaldson, Ind., this afternoon and tomorrow put in service in making the improvements now in progress at that place. This machine in appearance resembles the windlass hoisting apparatus in use at the coal mines. It has two cross connected steam cylinders, which are connected by cog with a big cable windlass, which pulls the unloading plows over the cars. The machine gets its steam from the locomotive boiler and for this purpose engine 58 has been fitted up with connecting pipes and other paraphernalia. This engine went to Donaldson this morning to get ready for operations in the morning. The unloader is the property of P. T. Clifford & Sons, who have the contract for doing the work at Donaldson.

EXCURSION TO CEDAR POINT.

The Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western road is making great preparations for an excursion to Cedar Point, which it is proposed shall eclipse all previous events of that character. The excursion will take place Sunday, July 21, and the train will be in charge of Conductor F. I. Stump. Cedar Point is a short distance out from Sandusky, Ohio, and is a favorite resort for the people of that section of the country.

NICKEL PLATE SUED.

The Findlay Courier says: "P. S. Shoupe has sued the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railway company for damages in the sum of $10,000. Mr. Shoupe is the administrator of John A. Shoupe, deceased, who was accidently killed at Linden station while in the performance of his duty as brakeman on the road. He was shifting or rearranging some freight cars standing on a "Y," orders to do so having been given by the conductor of the train. When he stepped between the cars to make a coupling, it is claimed that his foot caught in a frog, which held him fast, and he was run over by the cars, receiving injuries from which he died in thirty minutes. The plaintiff claims that the accident was due to negligence on the part of the defendant company in not repairing or filling in the frog with sheet steel spring guard or wrought iron appliances approved by the commissioner of railroads and telegraph. The deceased was unmarried and the only support of his parents, who belive they have suffered damages by the death of their son in the amount asked."

JUNE FREIGHT BUSINESS.

Mr. H. M. Elliott, local agent for the Indiana Car Service association, reports that there were handled in this city in June, in addition to the business passing through the warehouses, 1,592 car loads of freight, against 1,612 car loads in May and 1,408 car loads in June, 1900. Building material, Mr. Elliott says, constituted a large part of the shipments. The factories and particularly those engaged in making iron products, also did an unusual business last month. Last May was the best business month since the establishment of the local car service agency here, and June comes next, with only twenty short of the May business.

HEARTS BIGGER THAN PURSES.

Yesterday The Sentinel referred to the purse presented to Mrs. Walter L. Stanley by the employes of the Nickel Plate and today it takes pleasure in recording another generous deed on the same line. Many of the men were out on the road when the subscriptions for the purse were taken last Monday and, as they entertained a high regard for their old comrade and great sympathy for his afflicted family, they made up another purse—larger than the first one—and it now awaits the return to the city of Mrs. Stanley. This act illustrates more fully the generous, sympathetic character of Nickel Plate employes. They never turn aside an appeal for aid, and particularly when the beneficiary is an unfortunate comrade or the family of a deceased friend and associate.

WENT OFF THE DOCK TRACKS.

A car loaded with coal went off the end of the coal dock tracks at the Nickel Plate yards yesterday and dropped about twelve feet to the ground beneath. The accident was caused by a defective coupling, which prevented the engineer from checking the car when the signal was given. The docks were considerably damaged, though the car escaped with slight damage.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Earl Stevens has resigned a position in the Wabash shops.

Assistant Master Mechanic John Dalman, of the Pittsburg, is fishing at Rome City today.

Nickel Plate Fireman Herb Minser, who was sick three or four days, has resumed work on the road.

Pittsburg Brakemen L. A. Melick, B. W. Collins and V. Weber are taking a lay off to enjoy the Fourth.

Nickel Plate Engineer Charley Titus has taken a vacation for the purpose of visiting friends in Ohio.

Passenger Fireman Charles Sanders, who was sick, took his plass in the Nickel Plate service yesterday.

Conductor P. O. Dinklage, of the Pennsylvania, is off duty to spend the Fourth with his family in the city.

After a ten days' visit with relatives and friends in the west, Conductor T. H. Seaney has returned to his duties on the Nickel Plate.

Nickel Plate Car Inspector C. Youtz, who had been off duty on account of the death of his brother, reported for work last evening.

Nickel Plate Conductor Fred Denhl has taken a lay off to enjoy the Fourth with his family, who have just returned from a visit in Ohio.

Pittsburg Conductor W. A. Current, who had been looking after private business a few days, resumed his duties on the road this morning.

Fierman E. L. Tenny is sick and Fireman G. F. Conrad is detained at home by the sickness of his wife. Both are employed by the Pittsburg.

Supt. S. K. Blair and Chief Supervisor C. B. Hoyt, of the Nickel Plate, made a trip over the Third district yesterday, on a special train, arriving here at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Rogers, wife of Engineer Charles Rogers, of the Pittsburg road, and their son have returned from St. Johns, Kas., where they were guests of relatives a week or two.

Nickel Plate Fireman Stormes got a piece of steel in one of his eyes yesterday and suffered intensely before the metal was removed. He is off duty in consequence of the accident.

Nicholas J. Murphy, a conductor on the Grand Rapids and Indiana road, has taken a leave of absence, which he will devote to sight-seeing at Buffalo and the Pan-American exposition.

Mr. F. S. Hunting, superintendent of sales of the Fort Wayne Electric company, has returned from a most successful business trip to the east. He was absent from the city about two weeks.

Fred Roth received a painful wound on his right hand yesterday by letting the member come in contact with a rapidly revolving emery wheel. Dr. L. T. Sturgis dressed the hand. Mr. Roth is employed at the Olds Wagon works.

Engineers Frank Davis and Bert Baughman and Fireman W. H. Anderson, of the Nickel Plate, are taking a lay off in order that they may fittingly observe the national holiday.

Directors of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad have authorized a new bond issue of $50,000,000. Between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 will be used to pay for track elevation in Chicago.

Brakeman J. S. Carey, who had made only one trip on the Nickel Plate after beginning service with that company, is sick and will probably be unable to take his run out for a few days.

Pittsburg Fireman J. M. Brown was overcome by heat yesterday afternoon and had to abandon his run. He still suffers slightly from the effects of the attack, but will be all right in a day or two.

President Joseph Ramsey, jr., of the Wabash, announces by circular from St. Louis headquarters that the office of general manager is abolished. The duties heretofore performed by him will be assumed by the president.

David Zimmerman, a carpenter employed at the Lake Erie and Western shops, is off duty for the purpose of taking treatment from Dr. Havice for an affection of the ears. He hopes to have his hearing completely restored.

Mr. Reilly, employed in the Wabash machine shop, had a wrist injured Tuesday and is now threatened with serious results. It seems that some poisonous substance entered the wound and caused it to become badly inflamed.

Saxby's Travelers' Magazine says the passenger conductor is a much abused individual. He is regarded as the target for all sorts of criticism; the praise he gets comes only at intervals, and his deserts are far above those he receives.

East of Pittsburg the Pennsylvania railroad manufactures its own ice and sets car loads daily at the leading consuming points. At Altoona the employes are allowed to remove what ice remains in the car at the close of the day, and there is considerable of it.

The track layers engaged in building the Fort Wayne and Southwestern railroad are only a short distance from Roanoke and will reach that village in a day or two. It is believed they will reach the St. Mary's river bridge before the structure is completed.

S. W. Hubbard, general baggage agent of the Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis railroad, has tendered his resignation, effective August 1. He has been with the Memphis system nearly thirty years, and is crowded out as a result of the Memphis Frisco consolidation.

Indianapolis Journal: "The Cincinnati, Richmond and Muncie railroad has decided to run through Peru by way of the old canal bed, that is, if it can gain possession of the property from A. N. Dukes and the Shirk estate by condemnation proceedings. The owners will object seriously, as they are interested in an electric line that will use the canal from Fort Wayne to Lafayette."

C. H. Newton, Wabash freight agent at Toledo, who attended the Local Freight Agents' association's convention at Denver in June and later went to California to visit his mother, would be surprised to read the following item, which appeared in Wednesday's Indianapolis Journal: "C. H. Newton, for years agent of the Wabash lines at Toledo, who a few weeks ago went to California quite ill, returned yesterday much improved in health."

STORY OF THE FIRECRACKER

HOW THEY ARE MADE IN CHINA FOR AMERICANS.

Entire Families Engaged in Their Manufacture—Pitifully Small Wages Paid.

As the Fourth of July approaches, the juvenile fancy exults in anticipation of the delight afforded by that small but abtrusive article—the firecracker. This delight may be said to be confined exclusively to children and youths, and is hardly shared by the older members of society, who like to sleep in the mornings, to drive in the evenings, and object to having the digits of their tender offsprings blown off by injudicious use of these combustibles.

The Chinese are responsible for firecrackers, and great quantities of those articles find their way into this country every year from the Flowery Kingdom. There were exported in one year 26,705,733 pounds of fire-crackers from China, the greater portion of which were shipped to this country. It is estimated that on or about this forthcoming Fourth of July considerably over five millions of crackers will lend their vociferous aid in expressing the patriotism of the nation. The value of the average yearly export of these little noisemakers is computed by the Chinese Imperial customs at a sum equaling about a million and a half of American money in gold. The export this year will, from all indications, prove an exception, because of the disturbances in China.

The exports represent but a small fraction of the amount manufactured and used in China. There are no large manufactories. The crackers are made in small houses and in the shops where they are sold. In the latter places the proprietor of the shop, his wife (or wives), and children do the work. No record is kept of the number made and sold, and no estimate is possible of their cost.

The use of crackers is universal in China, and has been as far back as history records. It is most probable that in the beginning they were used to frighten away evil spirits. Now they are most frequently an expression of good feeling or of ceremonious compliment. They are used at weddings, births and funerals, at festivals, religious, civil and military ceremonies, at New Year, to salute persons about to make a journey and, in fact, on all occasions out of the ordinary routine.

In making fire-crackers, only the cheapest kind of straw paper, which can be produced in the immediate locality where the crackers are made, is used for the body of the cracker. A little finer paper is used for the wrapper. A piece of straw paper, 9x30 inches, will make twenty-one crackers one and one-half inch long, and one-fourth of an inch in diameter. The powder is also of the cheapest grade, and is made in the locality where used. It costs 150 to 175 cash per catty, or 6 to 7 cents gold per pound.

For the fuse a paper (called "leather" in Shanghai) is used, which is imported from Japan and is made from the inner lining of the bamboo. In other places a fine rice paper is used, generally stiffened slightly with buckwheat flour paste, which, the Chinese say, adds to its inflammability. A strip of this paper one-third of an inch wide by fourteen inches (a Chinese foot) long, is laid on a table and a very little powder put down the middle of it with a hollow bamboo stick. A quick twist of the paper makes the fuse ready for use. An eye-witness thus describes the entire process of manufacture:

"The straw paper is first rolled by hand around an iron rod, which varies in size according to the size of cracker to be made. To complete the rolling a crude machine is used. This consists of two uprights supporting an axis, from which is suspended by two arms a heavy piece of wood, slightly convex on the lower side. There is just room between this swinging block and the top of the table to place the cracker. As each layer of paper is put on by hand, the cracker is placed on the table and the suspended weight is drawn over the roll, thus tightening it until no more can be passed under the weight. For the smallest "whip" cracker the woodman uses for compression, instead of this machine, a heavy piece of wood, fitted with a handle like that of a carpenter's plane. In filling crackers, 200 to 300 are tied together tightly in a bunch. Red clay is spread over the end of the bunch and forced into the end of each cracker with a punch. The powder is poured in at the other end of the cracker. With the aid of an awl the edge of the paper is turned in at the upper end of the cracker and the fuse inserted through this.

"A variety of cracker I do not remember to have seen in the United States," continues the narrator, "but which is popular in China, is the 'twice-sounding.' It has two chambers separated by a plug of clay, through which runs a connecting fuse. There is also a fuse extending from the powder in the lower chamber through the side of the cracker. When the cracker is to be fired it is set on end and fire set to the fuse. The powder exploding in the chamber throws the cracker high in the air, where the second charge is exploded by fire from the fuse extending through the plug between the two chambers. In the manufacture of these the clay is first tamped in with a punch to form the separate plug. The lower chamber is then loaded with powder and closed by turning over the paper at the end. The upper chamber is loaded and closed with clay. A hole is punched in the side of the lower chamber with an awl, and the fuse inserted through this opening."

At Canton the ordinary sized cracker (one and one-half inches long by one-fourth of an inch in diameter) costs one tael (62 cents) for 10,000 for export. At Hankow the best quality of this size costs one tael for 5,000, while of the second quality 20,000 can be bought for one tael. At Chunking 15,000 of the ordinary crackers can be bought for one tael. At Shanghai one tael will purchase 5,000 of the ordinary size, while the largest sell for 85 per thousand. These prices are probably only a shade above the actual cost of manufacture. The small manufacturers sell to Chinese compradores, who buy as agents of foreign firms and ship the crackers in bundles to the sea coast, where they are packed in boxes which cost about 4 taels ($2.50) per hundred and hold 250,000 fire crackers.

Apart from the fact that all the material used is native and produced where the crackers are manufactured, and that transportation does not enter into the cost, the wonderful cheapness of manufacture is accounted for by the kind of labor used and the wages paid. The items of cost of plant and interest on it are eliminated by the fact that the crackers are made in the homes of the workmen and in the shops where they are sold. The hours of labor are from 6 a. m. to 11 p. m., and there are seven working days in each week. Four-fifths of the crackers consumed in China are made by the families of those who sell them, these people, of course, receiving no wages. Of the paid work, a very large proportion is done by women and children, who are paid by the piece.

It is estimated that thirty women and ten men can make 100,000 crackers per day, for which the women will receive 5 cents each and the men about 7 cents each. An apprentice is bound for four years and during that time receives only his board. At the end of that period he will receive, if he is a fairly good workman, 150 cash per day, or 7 cents in United States money. An expert at the trade receives 200 cash per day, or 10 cents gold. Workmen at this trade receive about the average rate of wages paid for common labor in this section of China. The trade is considered unhealthy and dangerous and therefore not desirable.

WHAT MAKES AN ORATOR

In my opinion, says Senator George F. Hoar in Scribner's, the two most important things that a young man can do to make himself a good public speaker are:

First—Constant and careful written translations from Latin or Greek into English.

Second—Practice in a good debating society.

It has been said that all the greatest parliamentary orators of England are either men whom Lord North saw or men who saw Lord North—that is, men who were conspicuous as public speakers in Lord North's youth, his contemporaries, and the men who saw him as an old man when they were young themselves. This would include Bolingbroke and would come down only to the year of Lord John Russell's birth. So we should have to add a few names, especially Gladstone, Disraeli, John Bright and Palmerston. There is no great parliamentary orator in England since Gladstone died. I once, a good many years ago, looked at the biographies of the men who belonged to that period and were famous as great orators in the parliament or in court, to find, if I could, the secret of their power. With the exception of Lord Erskine and of John Bright, I believe everyone of them trained himself by careful and constant translation from Latin or Greek and frequented a good debating society in his youth.

Brougham trained himself for extemporaneous speaking in the Speculative society, the great theater for debate for the University of Edinburgh. He also improved his English style by translations from Greek, among which is his well known version of the "Oration on the Crown."

Canning's attention, while at Eton, was strongly turned to extemporaneous speaking. They had a debating society, in which the marquis of Wellesley and Charles Earl Grey had been trained before him, in which they had all the forms of the house of commons—speaker, treasury benches and an opposition. Canning was also disciplined in the habit of translation.

QUEER ACCIDENT TO HORSE.

This morning Adolph Haller, the West Main street butcher, lost a valuable horse under peculiar circumstance. His clerk, a young lad, was riding the animal bareback and the horse was not traveling faster than a walk. Flies bothered the horse considerably, and while he was frantically endeavoring to dislodge some of the pests, presumably on his belly, he made a lunge with his right foot, wrenched himself and fell to the ground. Dr. Dodge, who happened to pass a moment later, was called and found that the horse had broken his front "elbow," the joint in the front leg, next to the body. The efforts of the horse in trying to kick forward with his hind leg probably wrenched him in such a manner that the bone in the front leg was snapped off short. Anyway the leg was broken and Officer Schlaudroff being called, after a short examination, shot the animal. The accident occurred at the corner of Monroe and Wayne streets.

THREE AT A TIME.

Charles Kruger, Will Rogers and Charles Fink will remember the Fourth for some time to come. The lads were shooting off a toy cannon this morning, and one of the charges exploded prematurely while the boys were getting ready to touch it off. The Kruger boy received the charge on the left side of his face, and the left eye is so badly injured that the sight is ruined and the optic may have to be removed.

HEAT RECORD TODAY.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 4.—Frequent heavy showers during the last 24 hours has, it is thought, effectually broken the hot spell. At 10 o'clock this morning the mercury stood at 77 degrees. The sun has been obscured by clouds all morning and the weather is threatening. But two deaths from heat have been reported today and both were persons stricken on Tuesday. Figures from the bureau of health show that during the wave of torridity there were 97 deaths from heat and 192 prostrations. This record has never been equalled.

St. Louis, July 4.—At 8 a. m. the government thermometer registered 86, or 6 higher than at the same time yesterday.

Kansas City, July 4.—8 a. m.—Mercury 90, four higher than yesterday. Three prostrations were reported during the night which was insufferably hot.

Cincinnati, July 4.—At 9 a. m. the thermometer indicated 76. No deaths and no prostrations were reported up to that hour.

Cleveland, July 4.—At 10 o'clock this morning the government thermometer registered 81 with a pleasant north breeze. No deaths or prostrations from heat have been reported during the past twelve hours.

CAUSED BY CANNON CRACKER.

Charles Disney, twelve years old, residing on West Fourth street, held a cannon cracker in his hand too long after the fuse had been ignited. The cracker exploded in the boy's face, the powder lodging under the skin and causing painful burns. Dr. Stults attended him.

A lad named Farnan, residing on Pritchard street, was struck on the head by a stone thrown by a companion and received a very painful scalp wound.

An egg train of twelve refrigerator cars left Newton, Kas., the other day for California.

KNIVES, PISTOLS AND STONES

FIGURED IN AN EAST END FIGHT LAST NIGHT.

Trouble is Kept From the Officers—Notes in Police Circles Today.

There was a vicious fight last night at the corner of Winch street and the Wabash railroad. The police department was informed of the fight by telephone and Officer Richardson was sent out to investigate it. He could learn very little about it except that William Schwier, one of the participants, was rendered hors du combat by being hit in the pit of the stomach by a stone. Knives were drawn, but so far as the officers could learn no one was cut and several revolver shots were fired without effect. Further investigation will be made by the officers, and as two or three of the parties to the scrap, aside from Schwier, are known, arrests may follow in a day or two.

MINOR POLICE NOTES.

The saloonkeepers arrested for violating the screen ordinance on Sunday evening, will have their hearing tomorrow afternoon at the 2 o'clock performance at the city hall.

There was no police court this morning and so far as known there will be no matinee, there not having been arrests made during the day.

Jeff Meyers has been paroled and has returned from the prison north and will go to work on T. E. Ellison's dairy farm. Jeff is a harmless chap, whose besetting sin has always been an uncontrollable thirst. He has served three terms north and innumerable jail sentences, but says that this time he has cut everything out for sure.

The police have been instructed to arrest all persons found using guns, pistols or other firearms today. The mayor says that all the noise that is necessary can be made by the contrivances made solely for the purpose of raising Cain.

Captain Whitney last night captured a cannon which is almost big enough to mount in one of the parks. He found a party of boys having the thing in charge, and although he did not hear it go off, and the boys denied having fired it, he thought it a dangerous thing to have parading around the streets, so he took charge of it and locked it up in the patrol box at the corner of Calhoun and Williams street. He told the boys to call for it after the Fourth.

A plate glass in the front of Henry Auth's place at 136 Calhoun street was broken last night. A peculiar feature of the accident is that no one about the place has any idea when it occurred.

COURT NEWS.

The news in the courts today can be covered in a sentence—there is none. The court house offices are all closed, the justice stores are locked up tight and police court failed to materialize.
